Comprehensive Assessed Value Report

2009-2011 (Taxes Payable 2010 - 2012)

Prepared by the Department of Local Government Finance
April 5, 2012

Introduction

This report presents an analysis of assessed value changes in Indiana from assessment year 2009 to assessment year 2011. The report relies on data submitted to the Department of Local Government Finance ("Department"). Specifically, the report analyzes parcel-level data submitted by county assessors and certified net assessed values submitted by county auditors. The report is split into three main sections and focuses on three changes in assessed values: changes in gross assessed values, net assessed values, and the number of parcels.

Key Terms Explained

The dollar value of property subject to taxation is called an assessed value. Two types of properties are subject to taxation in Indiana: real property and personal property. Real property is the interests, benefits and rights inherent in the ownership of physical real estate; in other words, it is the physical land and building improvements. Personal property typically involves moveable items, such as farm equipment and appliances not built to a structure. Gross assessed value is the assessed value for all real and personal property before deductions and exemptions are applied. Net assessed value is the gross assessed value of a property less any deductions, abatements, and exemptions and serves as the taxable value of a property. Certified net assessed value is total net assessed value as certified to the Department by each county auditor for the use in the calculation of tax rates. A taxing district is a geographical region that is served by the same taxing units

Report

The first section of the report shows the changes in gross assessed values. This section analyzes the changes in assessed values by real and personal property. Real and personal property gross assessed value changes are shown at the county level as well as statewide. The real property section separates parcels into "residential," "commercial," and "industrial" categories based upon the property class codes assigned by the Assessor. Additionally, taxing district changes in gross assessed values by property type can be found in Appendix A.

The second section focuses on changes in certified net assessed values. The certified net assessed values are presented to the Department by the county auditor for each taxing district and taxing unit. Certified net assessed values by taxing unit can be found in the Appendix B. The taxing district changes can be found in Appendix C.

The final section of the report focuses on the number of real property parcel types in Indiana. This section analyzes parcel count changes for all classes of property, and then also shows changes in several sub-classifications: industrial, commercial, residential, agricultural, mineral, exempt, and utility properties over a two-year period.

*Does not include Sullivan County for assessment years 2009 – 2011

Statewide, gross assessed value has grown by 0.5 percent, approximately $2.1 billion, from assessment year 2010 to assessment year 2011. More than half of Indiana counties saw growth of more than 1 percent during this period. Benton, Daviess, Greene, and Warren Counties saw increases in their gross assessed value of more than 3 percent from assessment year 2010 to assessment year 2011. Even though a majority of the counties saw an increase in their gross assessed value, some counties saw significant decreases during this period. Elkhart County had one of the largest declines in gross assessed value, approximately $565 million, a 4.2 percent decrease.

Real Property Gross Assessed Value Changes 2009-2011 (Taxes Payable 2010-2012)

*Does not include Sullivan County for assessment years 2009 – 2011

The gross assessed value of real property increased from assessment year 2010 to assessment year 2011, approximately 0.3 percent, roughly a $1.3 billion increase. Of the three major types of properties (residential, industrial, and commercial), industrial properties saw the largest decrease in gross assessed value. From assessment year 2010, gross assessed values for industrial properties declined 1.7 percent statewide. More than one third of the counties saw decreases in their gross assessed value of industrial properties of more than 2.0 percent. Vermillion County had one of the largest decreases in industrial assessed value at 11.0 percent, a $7 million decrease.

Residential properties saw modest growth in gross assessed value compared to other property types. From assessment year 2010 to assessment year 2011, residential gross assessed value increased by $115 million, not even a tenth of a percent. Seven counties saw residential growth of 3 percent or greater: Daviess, Fountain, Franklin, Greene, Knox, Monroe, and Switzerland Counties.

Data and Methodology

This report relies on parcel-level data submitted to the Department by the county assessor. The changes in real property assessed values cover only those 90 counties that have submitted their real property data files for assessment year 2011 to the Department. Two counties have not yet submitted their real property data files, Sullivan and LaPorte. Of the 90 real property data files received, 88 are compliant with the data standards set forth in 50 IAC 26. Counties that are not compliant for assessment year 2011 are still included in the report and are noted with an asterisk. The following counties were not compliant at the time of this report: Scott and Union.

The changes in personal property cover those 90 counties that have submitted their personal property data files for assessment year 2011 to the Department. Of the 90 real property files received, 88 are compliant with the data standards set forth in 50 IAC 26. Posey and Madison Counties are not compliant but are included in the report and are noted with an asterisk. Sullivan and LaPorte Counties have not yet submitted personal property files.

The real property assessed value changes separate parcels into the "residential," "commercial," and "industrial" categories based upon the property class code assigned to the parcel by the assessor. Total assessed value is summed in each category for the three years and the Department calculates the percentage change. The total assessed value is not adjusted for changes in the number of parcels; if the number of parcels in a class increases, the assessed value change would reflect that increase. Therefore, these increases are the total change in assessed value and are not necessarily indicative of the assessed value change in the average parcel.

Data at the taxing district level is included in Appendix A. The taxing district information is taken from the county assessor's parcel-level data and matched to the state-assigned taxing district number list for each county. If for a given taxing district in a particular year, there were no properties of the given type, its entry reads "no such property" and any associated percentage change comparison would also read "no such property." If one or more records in the parcel-level data do not have a taxing district matching one of the state-assigned numbers, the record is included in the report but the taxing district is indicated by "(Taxing District Unspecified)," signifying that the Department was unable to match the district code provided to one of the state-assigned district numbers.

Section 2: Certified Net Assessed Values

Key Findings

Statewide Certified Net Assessed Values 2009-2011 (Taxes Payable 2010-2012)
2009-Pay-2010	2010-Pay-2011	2011-Pay-2012	2009-2010	2010-2011	Average Annual Increase 2009 to 2011
$ 266,286,216,726	$ 262,140,785,877	$ 264,696,555,252	-1.6%	1.0%	-0.3%

Fluctuations in certified net assessed values by county and taxing district are an important metric since changes affect tax rates, causing rates to either increase or decrease. A lower net assessed value would result in a higher tax rate. Likewise, a higher net assessed value would result in a lower tax rate. Although the amount of the levy for a unit has a large impact on the final tax bill, changes in assessed values also changes the property tax burden.

Over the past two years, statewide certified net assessed values have decreased $1.6 billion from $266.3 billion in assessment year 2009 to $264.7 billion in assessment year 2011. Marion and St. Joseph Counties saw an average annual decrease in their certified net assessed values of over 2 percent during this time period. Even though statewide certified net assessed values decreased, there were still counties who saw substantial growth during this period. Fountain, Greene, and Warren Counties all had an average annual increase in their certified net assessed values of more than 5 percent.

Furthermore, from assessment year 2010 to assessment year 2011, counties such as Brown, Clark, Elkhart, and Kosciusko saw decreases in their certified net assessed values of 2 percent or higher. Elkhart County had one of the largest declines in their certified net assessed values. From assessment year 2010 to assessment year 2011, their certified net assessed values went from approximately $8.1 billion to $7.7 billion, a decrease of 4.8 percent.

Several counties saw substantial increases in their net assessed values from assessment year 2010 to assessment year 2011. Blackford, Decatur, Howard, and Switzerland Counties all saw increases in their net assessed values of over 3 percent. Benton County had one of the largest increases in certified net assessed values from assessment year 2010 to assessment year 2011, an increase of 17 percent or $112 million.

Statewide, counties' and schools' net assessed values increased from assessment year 2010 to assessment year 2011 by approximately 0.9 percent. In addition, cities/towns across the state saw their net assessed values increase by 0.9 percent, approximately a $1.1 billion increase during this same time period.

Data and Methodology

Data for this section is taken from the certified net assessed values as presented to the Department by the county auditor for each taxing district and taxing unit. The changes in certified net assessed values cover only those 91 counties that have certified their values. LaPorte County has not yet certified their net assessed values for assessment year 2009 and is therefore excluded from the report

If a given taxing unit and/or district was not active in a particular assessment year, its entry reads "Inactive" and any associated percentage change comparison would also read "Inactive." Statewide figures are presented by summing the total certified net assessed value in all counties for which data is available. In order to ensure consistency, for taxing units with a general fund, the report lists the certified net assessed value of the general fund. For taxing units without a general fund, the most relevant fund was chosen.

Units included in the "Special" category encompass a wide range of units levying property taxes. They include airport authorities, solid waste districts, fire protection districts, public transportation districts, and consolidated city-county units.

*Does not include Sullivan County for assessment years 2009 – 2011

In assessment year 2011, approximately 92 percent of the state's gross assessed value was composed of real property assessed value. A majority, roughly 85 percent, of the statewide real property assessed value comes from three property types: residential properties, commercial properties, and industrial properties. Therefore, fluctuations in the number of these properties as well as changes in these types of properties' assessed values will cause changes in gross assessed value, which can affect the tax rates and property tax bills.

The number of parcels across all properties is almost the same from assessment year 2009 to 2011. Four counties saw increases of 2 percent or greater over this period: Daviess, Johnson, Monroe, and Warrick.

Compared to all other types of properties statewide, commercial properties had the largest decline in the number of parcels since assessment year 2009. Over the two year period, the number of commercial properties decreased by 1.6 percent. During this same time period, industrial properties saw a 1.0 percent decrease.

The number of residential parcels decreased slightly since assessment year 2009. However, four counties showed a 2 percent or greater increase in their residential parcel: Johnson, Monroe, Scott, and Warrick. When comparing assessment year 2009 to assessment year 2011, the average county saw a 0.1 percent decreases in their number of residential properties; Monroe, Johnson, and Warrick Counties showed an increase of more than 1.0 percent.

Data and Methodology

This section of the report relies on parcel-level data submitted to the Department by the county assessor, and covers only those 90 counties that have submitted real property data files for assessment year 2011. Two counties have not yet submitted their real property data files, Sullivan and LaPorte. Of the 90 real property data files received, 88 are compliant with the data standards set forth in 50 IAC 26. Counties that are not compliant for assessment year 2011 are still included in the report and are noted with an asterisk. The following counties were not compliant at the time of this report: Scott and Union.

The report analyzes parcel count changes for all classes of property, and then also shows changes in several sub-classifications: industrial, commercial, residential, agricultural, mineral, exempt, and utility properties. To measure the parcel count, the Department takes the count of distinct parcel numbers by county for each given property class type. The property class is determined using the standard code as supplied by the county in their real property data submissions, and as such, the results of this report assume that the counties have applied the property class codes correctly.

If, for a given parcel, a property class code was used that does not conform to the standard code list as maintained jointly by the Department and Legislative Services Agency, that parcel would not be included in the sub-classification reports; however, since the all properties report makes no distinction as to the property class, that parcel would be included in that report. It is therefore to be expected that in some counties, the sum of all totals on the sub-classification reports may not match the overall property total.
