MULTICULTURAL INDIANA:
Teaching About Hoosier Diversity

Friday, June 26, 2009
9 a.m. – 4 p.m.

Registration Deadline: June 12, 2009
Cost: $20
Call 317.232.1637 to register

Indiana history has been shaped by the presence and dedication of racially, economically, and culturally diverse groups of men and women. This workshop will introduce educators to the state's diverse history and its impact on Indiana's development and architecture. Representatives from schools that have developed and implemented multicultural curricula will discuss ways to use such information in the classroom. Educators may receive CRU credit through Indiana University School of Education in Bloomington.

This workshop is presented by the Indiana Division of Historic Preservation and Archaeology, the Indiana Historical Bureau, and the Indiana State Museum.

For more information, please contact:

Joanna Hahn
Indiana State Museum
317.232.8293

or

Jeannie Regan-Dinius
Division for Historic Preservation and Archaeology
317.234.1268

INDIANA DIVISION OF HISTORIC PRESERVATION AND ARCHAEOLOGY

INDIANA HISTORICAL BUREAU
Presenting Hoosier history since 1915

INDIANA STATE MUSEUM

650 W. Washington Street, Indianapolis, IN 46204 • indianamuseum.org