BMV Receives Top Workplace Award

INDIANAPOLIS— On Sunday, May 14, IndyStar announced the Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles (BMV) as one of the 2023 Top Workplaces.

IndyStar, in partnership with Energage, invited 1,711 central Indiana businesses to survey their employees with 124 being recognized as a Top Workplace. The questions focused on leadership, values, work culture, and employee engagement.

The BMV was awarded the Top Workplace honor for both USA and Indiana in its first year of participation. Key survey benchmarks including training, management support, benefits, and pay ranked high among BMV employees and highlight some of the reasons the agency received this honor. When the BMV thrives, it has positive benefit to customers.

“Our employees are the heart of the BMV,” stated Commissioner Joe Hoage. “Whether working in a branch, in our processing center, or in Central Office, each person on our team contributes to the agency’s success. It is our mission to provide good government service to Hoosiers and we can do that every day because of our dedicated team. I am grateful for their commitment to support one another and the communities they serve. This Top Workplace award is a celebration of their success.”

The Indiana BMV strives to build a culture that empowers its workforce and to provide associates with the proper tools, resources, and encouragement to succeed in their careers. Beyond the agency itself, the State of Indiana offers its employees tuition reimbursement, paid community service leave time, flexible scheduling, and remote work options, as well as generous holiday, vacation, and personal leave time.
