Types of Inspection

Indiana is one of 27 states that maintains a state-run meat inspection program. All meat and poultry intended for human food must be slaughtered and processed in an establishment inspected by the Indiana State Board of Animal Health (BOAH) or the United States Department of Agriculture-Food Safety and Inspection Service (USDA-FSIS). Indiana offers three types of oversight: official inspection, custom-exempt, and cooperative interstate shipping (CIS).

Inspection at Official Establishments

Under official inspection, a BOAH inspector examines live animals for signs of illness, defect or contamination. Carcasses are then inspected, post-slaughter, for abnormalities. Only meat passing all inspections is identified with a mark of inspection and may enter the food supply. A BOAH inspector is present for slaughter and/or processing. Facilities that do not slaughter must process meat from an inspected source.

Cooperative Interstate Shipment (CIS)

State-inspected plants may participate in the CIS program to allow products to be shipped across state lines with the federal mark of inspection. CIS provides added market opportunities for small business.

Custom-Exempt Processing

Custom-exempt facilities are inspected periodically by BOAH inspectors to ensure they maintain standards for sanitation. Only the equipment is inspected; animals and carcasses are NOT. Meat processed as custom-exempt is returned to the owner of the animal. Custom-exempt meat may be consumed only by the owner of the animal and his/her household guests; products may not be sold or donated.

State & USDA Inspection

By law, all facilities operating under state inspection must meet the same standards for sanitation, handling and processing as those under USDA, or federal, inspection. Just as federally inspected plants are under supervision of a USDA inspector, Indiana's official establishments are monitored by a state inspector while slaughter and processing takes place.

Home Slaughter

Individuals who raise their own livestock or poultry are free to process their own animals at home, or send the animals to a custom-exempt facility. Animals processed at home or in a custom-exempt facility can be consumed only by the owner of the animal(s) and nonpaying guests and employees—meat cannot be sold or donated. Hunter-harvested wild game, such as wild deer and game birds, are not eligible for inspection.

Indiana 2022 Meat & Poultry Buyer's Guide

Indiana farmers produce and sell a variety of meat and poultry products that are locally processed. This guide features businesses inspected by the Indiana State Board of Animal Health (BOAH), Meat & Poultry Inspection department.

Adding to Indiana's Economy:

90% of state-inspected establishments are located in towns of fewer than 5,000 residents.

Sales of freezer meats contribute $25.5 Million annually to Indiana's economy.

Food Safety Tips

- CLEAN: Wash hands, kitchen utensils and surfaces before and after preparing food.
- SEPARATE: Keep juices from raw meat, poultry and seafood away from ready-to-eat and cooked foods.
- COOK: Use a food thermometer. You cannot tell if food is cooked safely by how it looks.
- CHILL: Bacteria spread fastest at temperatures between 40°F and 140°F. Store food right away to reduce the risk of foodborne illness.

Safe Cooking Temperature Chart
