Effective Property Tax Rates 2009: Tax Bill as a Percentage of Gross Assessed Value

Prepared by the Department of Local Government Finance
December 11, 2009

Key Findings

Effective property tax rates differ widely among taxing districts. The unweighted average district rate is 0.57% for homestead properties, 1.89% for other residential properties, agricultural land, and long-term care facilities, and 1.99% for businesses and all other properties. For homesteads, the rates range from 0.00% in Wabash County (the result of LOIT credits) to 1.83% in Lake County, City of Gary (the result of exempt debt and Distressed Unit Appeal Board adjustment). For other residential property, agricultural land, and long-term care facilities, rates range from 0.63% to 4.34%. For business and other property, rates range from 0.63% to 5.73%.

In 21 districts, effective tax rates are above the tax caps. The reasons for this include the exemption of debt in Lake and St. Joseph Counties, a voter-approved building project in Bartholomew County, and voter-approved additional school funding in Allen, Hamilton, Marion, and Tippecanoe Counties.

Data and Methodology

This study uses the certified Pay2009 tax rates from the property tax abstract for 89 counties. Three counties (Clinton, LaPorte, and White) do not yet have an approved abstract. The study also uses the abstract's assessed value and property tax credit information to calculate rates for each applicable property tax credit. This information is used to calculate the net tax rate that applies to net assessed value. To calculate the effective tax rate, the net tax rate is multiplied by the assessment ratio (the proportion of net assessed value to gross assessed value). This result is compared against the property tax cap amount (adjusted for exemptions where applicable) and the final effective tax rate is the lower of the two values.

For homestead property, the assessment ratio varies as a result of the flat $45,000 standard deduction. To arrive at a single effective tax rate for homestead property, the calculation uses the average residential gross assessed value for each taxing district. For all other property, we assume the property has no deductions and therefore the assessment ratio is equal to one.

“Homestead” property is defined as an owner-occupied residence and up to one acre of land. “Qualified residential” property includes apartment complexes and residential rental property. “Other residential, agricultural, long-term care” property includes all residential parcels that are not used as primary residences or rentals, agricultural land, and long-term care facilities. “All other property” includes commercial and industrial property, as well as personal property.
