Certified Budget History 2006-2010

---

Prepared by the Department of Local Government Finance
April 5, 2010

Key Findings

Growth in certified budgets and additional appropriations by local units of government and certified by Department has slowed overall between 2006 and 2009. Statewide, certified budgets and additional appropriations increased by 4.0% in 2007, 3.4% in 2008, and 0.4% in 2009. This results in an average annual percentage increase for the four year period (2006-2009) of 2.6%. These correspond to nominal increases of $654M for 2007, $578M for 2008, and $79M for 2009. This slowed growth provides evidence of enhanced fiscal restraint at the local level over the time-span presented. Significant variation exists in the budget adoption growth of individual units.

For the 87 counties with completed budget work for 2010 thus far, the average decrease in certified budgets is 6.8%. Despite three counties (Decatur at +8.4%, Brown at +6.8% and Jasper at +5.2%) showing a significant growth in certified appropriations, all other reporting counties have growth rates that do not exceed 5%. In 72 of the 87 counties reporting as of the date of this report, the total certified budgets and additional appropriations to date from all units are lower than the previous year. It is important to note that units have until December 15, 2010 to file petitions for additional appropriations for Department approval, and so these figures will be updated throughout the 2010 budget year.

There are some counties and units that show very large decreases from 2009 to 2010; examples include the city of Anderson in Madison County, Cass County, Elkhart Community Schools in Elkhart County, and Plymouth Community Schools in Marshall County. These large reductions most often represent cases where the Department has not certified a budget due to failure by the unit to properly advertise or adopt a budget, and therefore caution should be exercised when drawing any conclusions based upon these cases. As these units petition the Department for additional appropriations, their total certified appropriation figures will climb over the course of the 2010 budget year and these will be reflected in future updates to this report.

Data and Methodology

Budgets (or “appropriations”) are adopted by the fiscal bodies of local units of government. They are subject to the adjustment and approval of the Department, which issues a final certified budget in the Budget Order. Also, local units of government may petition the Department for additional appropriations throughout the budget year; these must be adopted by ordinance and submitted to the Department’s Budget Division not later than December 15 of each budget year. This report analyzes local taxing units’ budgets as certified by the Department, plus any Department-certified additional appropriation amounts. The county and statewide overall percentage changes compare the total certified appropriations, including any certified additional appropriations, for all units for the first year and compare to the same figures for all units for the second year. For 2010 budgets, the statewide percentage change compares the 2010 totals to the 2009 totals for the 87 reporting counties only. For the county-level unit, welfare funds were excluded from all years in order to remove the bias from the state assumption of welfare costs in 2009. Since the deadline for 2010 additional appropriation requests is December 15, 2010, the figures for budget year 2010 are expected to increase for many units as additional appropriation requests are received and certified by the Department.

The portion of this report that shows the percentage change in certified appropriations by unit type measures the difference in the aggregate certified appropriations for all units within a given type (i.e., county, township, school corporation, etc.) for budget years 2006-2009, and for the comparison between 2009 and 2010, only those units for which we have data for both 2009 and 2010 are included in the comparison. Some unit types show substantial variation from year to year; especially redevelopment commissions and special taxing units. These wide variations are typically the result of one or two units with large changes skewing the unit type group as a whole – an example for the change in special taxing units is the Marion County Airport. Due to the size of its appropriations in relation to the aggregate of all special taxing units, this unit’s substantial changes in year-over-year certified appropriations have a dramatic effect when viewing the total change by unit type. Another example can be seen with redevelopment commissions; the wide variation in year-over-year changes when looking at the unit type analysis typically results from one or two units with large certified additional appropriations in a particular year, and when these are one-time requests, the resulting aggregate comparison shows an extraordinary year-over-year change.
