

PLEASE STAY ON MARKED TRAILS

- *The ladders used on this trail can be hazardous for visitors with some medical conditions or disabilities. Hikers with small children and pets should use alternate trails.
- Hollow to the Lieber Memorial and Log Church.
- 11. EASY (.5 mile)—A short hike high above Turkey Run scenic view. Many unusual formations due to erosion.
  - 10. MODERATE (1.4 miles)—To "Camei's Back," fine virgin wood is also the most rugged. Be careful.
  - 9. VERY RUGGED (1 mile)—The best trail to see late hiking that follows a small creek.
  - 8. MODERATE (1.5 miles)—Peaceful trail with moderate hiking that follows a small creek.
  - 7. MODERATE (.7 mile)—Virgin wood, hemlock trees, stream on steppingstones. May be impassable during high water.
  - 6. MODERATE/RUGGED (.5 mile)—Short hike through a deep canyon. Trail meanders across a stream on steppingstones. May be impassable during high water.
  - 5. MODERATE (.7 mile)—Fine trees; 140 steps (going down is from the west).
  - 4. MODERATE/RUGGED (2 miles)—Follows a fine little valley to the Lusk home, past the old quarry and coal mine. Portions may be impassable during high water.
  - 3. VERY RUGGED (1.7 miles)—The ladders trail. Unusual hiking between the steep walls of both Rocky and Bear hollows. Be careful. Portions may be impassable during high water.
  - 2. RUGGED (2 miles)—On this adventurous hike, visitors will experience riparian areas to upland forested areas. Walk through a tin on your way to the Lusk Earth fill and along cliff edges on this rugged hike.
  - 1. MODERATE/RUGGED (2 miles)—The big-tree trail. Fine sycamores and several huge black walnut trees; covered bridge. Portions may be impassable during high water.
- during such times and alternate trails used.

DESCRIPTION OF TRAILS

All trails have portions that use ravine streambeds as trail surface, so some sections can become slick and trail tread uneven. Parts of these trails may be impassable during high water and should be considered closed.

ACTIVITIES AND FACILITIES

Many historic structures are preserved at Turkey Run, providing a glimpse of life in more recent days. The Lusk Home and mill site serve as testament to the early enterprise and ambition characteristic of 19th century Hoosiers. Lieber Cabin, constructed of virgin timber in the 1840s, is the oldest of its kind in the state. The Log Church, built in 1871, stands as a reminder of the area's religious heritage. Shelter houses, a saddle barn and many sandstone trail structures are the legacy of the hard-working young men of the Civilian Conservation Corps, Camp 8, stationed here in 1934-1935.

Turkey Run serves as the final resting place for Col. Richard Lieber, the father of Indiana State Parks. His foresight allowed Indiana to become one of the first states to preserve significant natural areas in a system of state parks. You'll find his memorial atop a peaceful hemlock grove near the end of Trail 11.

The exposed bedrock here is Mansfield sandstone, named after the town. This deposit was formed during the Carboniferous Period, when the buildup of sand at the mouth of the ancient Michigan River was slowly compacted and cemented into solid rock. The swampy environment of this period produced vast coal deposits. Coal was mined here in the late 1800s and early 1900s. Seams of coal are still visible along many of the trails.

In more recent history, during the Pleistocene Epoch, the sandstone bedrock was carved into today's familiar canyons and formations by the eroding action of glacial meltwaters. The Punchbowl on Trail 3 is an example of a pothole that was scoured out by glacial erratics caught in swirling backwash. Erratics are pieces of bedrock from Canada carried here by the glaciers. Some of the larger erratics, or boulders, can still be seen in Boulder Canyon on Trail 9, smaller ones, pebbles, rest in and prompting its name.

INDIANA

TURKEY RUN STATE PARK

Classic examples of natural and human history abound at Turkey Run State Park, from its deep canyons nestled in the shadows of sandstone and peaceful hemlock groves to the Salmon Lusk Home and mill site.

Our second state park also invites you to some of Indiana's most ruggedly beautiful hiking trails. From the tiny mosses and ferns to the majestic old-growth walnuts and sycamores, lush plant communities thrive, supporting an abundance of wildlife. Deer tracks, beaver-chewed trees, pileated woodpecker excavations and the rocking flight of the turkey vulture are common sights throughout the year.

Turkey Run is located in west central Indiana on state Road 47, 2 miles east of state Road 41. The first parcel of Turkey Run's 2,382 acres was purchased during the state's centennial in 1916, when the state park system was established.

One story about how Turkey Run got its name says that wild turkeys, finding it
