WITH TRADE ADJUSTMENT ASSISTANCE

Benefits and Services

If you are a member of a worker group certified by the U.S. Department of Labor for TAA benefits, you may be eligible to receive the following benefits and services:

Trade Adjustment Assistance

The Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA) program was created to provide benefits and support to workers who become unemployed due to the impact of international trade. The TAA program seeks to provide U.S. workers who are adversely affected by trade with the opportunity to obtain the skills, resources, and support they need to become reemployed.

► HOW TO APPLY

To receive TAA benefits and services, submit a petition to the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL). A petition covers all workers at a specific company or subdivision. Generally, petitions must be submitted within one year of the layoff. Petitions may be submitted by:

- Three or more workers in the same firm or subdivision
- The workers' employer
- A union official or other duly authorized representative of such workers
- WorkOne Staff

Detailed assistance on completing a petition can be found on the U.S. Department of Labor's web site at www.doleta.gov/tradeact or at any Indiana WorkOne.

Eligibility Guidelines

You may be eligible for TAA if your job is lost or threatened due to trade-related circumstances such as:

- Increased imports of either products or services
- A shift in production to or an acquisition of services or articles from any foreign country by your company
- An acquisition of services from any foreign country by your public agency employer
- Your employer's loss of business from a customer with TAA-certified workers
- Your employer is identified as trade-injured by the International Trade Commission

DOL investigates and determines whether the circumstances of the layoff meet the group eligibility criteria established by the Trade Act. If DOL certifies group eligibility, workers will need to apply for individual benefits and services through WorkOne.
