Marker Text

This row of sycamores sprouted from freshly cut logs used in the 1830's to corduroy a swampy section of the historic Michigan Road, the first state road in Indiana, running from Madison to Michigan City.

Report

The Michigan Road did go through Carroll County at this location. However, the story regarding the origins of the row of sycamores cannot be established. See An Illustrated Historical Atlas of Carroll County, Indiana (1874) and John C. Odell's History of Carroll County, Indiana (1916) for further information.
