

Plan Evaluation and Adaptation

The Pigeon Creek Watershed plan reflects concerns, conditions, and potential means of improvement identified at the time the plan was drafted by the Steering Committee. Over time, changes within the watershed may affect the recommendations presented herein, and the implementation of future measures should be adjusted accordingly. The Implementation Team should evaluate the plan periodically (at least annually), for correlation to current watershed conditions and to determine if the implemented projects are providing the anticipated level of benefit. Upon completion of the evaluation, the watershed plan should be modified as necessary to meet the current conditions and needs of the watershed.
