

ROBIN J. LUNT

Robin J. Lunt is the Assistant General Counsel for the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners (NARUC) where she manages the energy side of the association's legal and policy work before federal agencies including FERC, DOE, EPA and the federal courts.

Robin supports all of the NARUC energy-related Committees, advising commissioners and staff, and directing informal collaborative and education activities in addition to formal agency comments and court filings. She covers a broad range of issues including transmission, smart grid, pipeline safety, environmental regulations and electric reliability.

Prior to joining NARUC in February of 2009, Robin worked a Washington DC law firm in offshore wind development, environmental insurance and environmental law.

Robin graduated magna cum laude from Brigham Young University Law School.
