

Celebrate Intellectual Freedom with the Indiana State Library

Intellectual freedom is a basic and important value of librarianship, but there are many organizations and artists that support the library's mission of challenging censorship in the local community. Join us for a half-day workshop on intellectual freedom hosted by the Indiana State Library!

9:00-9:30

ISL Associate Director Wendy Knapp congratulates Julia Whitehead, Kurt Vonnegut Memorial Library, and a representative from the office of Governor Pence for a proclamation signed by Governor Pence recognizing Sept. 22-26, 2013 as Banned Books Week.

9:30-10:30

Julia Whitehead, Executive Director of the Kurt Vonnegut Memorial Library, will discuss Kurt Vonnegut's personal response to censorship challenges of his own literature.

10:30-11:00 Short break

11:00-Noon
