Re: Student Instructional Expenditure Report for 2010-11 School Year

Attached is the 2010-11 Student Instructional Expenditure report as required by IC 20-42.5-3-5. Student Instructional Expenditures are defined as the sum of two categories: 1-Student academic achievement and 2-Student instructional support. Non-Instructional Expenditures are the remaining two categories: 3-Overhead and operational and 4-Non-operational. The computations herein are based upon financial data submitted by each school corporation.

The statewide Student Instructional Expenditures ratio (also known as the “Dollars to the Classroom” percentage) in 2010-11 was 58.6%. This figure is unchanged from the previous year, and a full percentage point lower than that of the baseline year of 2005-06 (59.6%). Data from ten years prior (1999-2000) is also included within this report.

Out of 348 school corporations and charter schools, 149 (or 43%) increased their percentage of dollars to the classroom from 2009-10 to 2010-11. Out of nine Educational Service Center areas, four increased their percentage.

The definitions of the four categories of expenditures are as follows:

- Student Academic Achievement: Defined as the activity between teachers and students. This category includes those direct expenditures related to instruction, providing instruction, instructional materials, and instructional supervision. Activities dealing directly with the teaching of pupils, including teachers (salaries and related fringe benefits), teacher aides, educational media services, textbooks, and instructional technology are included.
- Student Instructional Support: This category includes other expenditures for those services that support student academic achievement within the school building. Pupil support services included in these expenditures are attendance, social work, guidance, health, psychology, speech pathology, audiology, and school administration.
- Overhead and Operational: This category includes expenditures for non-instructional operating costs. Areas included are corporation administration, fiscal services (budgeting, payroll, and accounting), operation and maintenance of facilities, security, pupil transportation, food services, purchasing, and administrative technology.

- Non-operational: This category includes expenditures that are not related to the day-to-day operation of public elementary and secondary education. Expenditures included in this category are facilities acquisition and construction, purchase of non-instructional equipment, and debt service obligations.

The final section of this report presents the Indiana K-12 chart of accounts showing which category each type of expenditure falls into.

In addition to calculating the ratio of student instructional expenditures to all other expenditures as outlined in statute, we have provided an additional “operational” measure to allow for more meaningful corporation-to-corporation comparisons. The operational measure excludes category 4 (non-operational) as well as adult education and property expenditures. The approach is consistent with the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) analysis of elementary and secondary current expenditures by function.

(Note that NCES classifies school administration as non-instructional, whereas Indiana considers it as instructional support. Thus, school administration and corporation administration have been delineated separately for those wanting to compare to national statistics.)

Although there are some individual success stories, it is disappointing that overall progress in driving dollars to Indiana classrooms is lackluster. School corporations are encouraged to take advantage of savings opportunities such as joining the state’s (or another consortium’s) health insurance plans, and registering at k12indiana.com to take advantage of consolidated purchasing contracts. It is hoped that parents and taxpayers will take a closer look at these results and persuade their school board and administration to improve their performance over time. Lastly, state policy makers should explore ways to better incentivize the reduction of unnecessary, non-instructional spending.
