

Indiana Division

Indiana State Library

(317) 232-3670 (Newspapers, History, and More)

(317) 232-3671 (Manuscripts & Photographs)

Who We Are:

The Indiana Division has been in existence since 1913, although the collections of the Indiana Division began in 1825. The Indiana Division is responsible for collecting books and other materials on all aspects of Indiana's history and culture; overseeing the State Documents Depository Program; maintaining and enlarging the Indiana newspapers collection, and managing the more than 3,000,000 manuscripts and photographs in its collections.

What We Have:

- Over 120,000 books and pamphlets relating to or published in Indiana
- The most comprehensive collection of Indiana state agency publications in the world
- More than 80,000 reels of microfilmed Indiana newspapers, 1804-present
- Over 220 current newspaper subscriptions from around the state
- Over 3,000,000 manuscripts from the 18th century through the 21st century
- Thousands of photographs
- Over 11,000 maps of Indiana and its geographic subdivisions
- Sheet music relating to Indiana
- Extensive vertical files
- Specialized indexes and databases

What We Do:

- Answer questions on any topic related to Indiana
- Create online exhibits, databases, indexes, and bibliographies to enhance access to our collections
- Coordinate the activities of the Indiana State Documents Depository Program

Indiana State Library
140 North Senate Avenue
Indianapolis, Indiana 46204-2296
www.statelib.lib.in.us