Auditor Crouch speaks to Greencastle NFIB

STATEHOUSE – State Auditor Suzanne Crouch spoke today at the Greencastle meeting of the National Federation of Independent Businesses (NFIB).

“Small businesses account for 64 percent of net new private-sector jobs and employ 49 percent of the private-sector workforce,” said Auditor Crouch. “These businesses are the lifeblood of the Hoosier economy. Our state greatly benefits from small businesses owners taking the risk of starting and growing their companies in Indiana, and the NFIB is a great partner in helping them achieve their goals.”

Auditor Crouch shared with the group her duties and responsibilities as the Auditor and information specific to small business legislation and growth opportunities.

“I appreciate the opportunity to speak with such talented, dedicated Hoosiers,” Auditor Crouch said. “The NFIB does a wonderful job of helping small business owners and entrepreneurs expand their industry and make a place for themselves among thriving Indiana commerce.”

Founded in 1943, the NFIB is America’s leading small business association, promoting and protecting the right their members to own, operate and grow their businesses. As a nonpartisan, nonprofit association, the NFIB works to ensure that small and independent business owners have a voice in government policy-making.
