Dear Mr. Miller:

This is an update to the notification provided to you on June 10th. To ensure the safety and well-being of students, faculty, and colleagues at our 45+ locations, DeVry's Executive Committee and Return-to-Onsite taskforce made the decision to extend remote learning through the September and November sessions, which end on December 19, 2020.

Students remain supported by their student support advisors and deans while they are completing their coursework through their scheduled online courses or via WebEx Conferencing for courses that would have been conducted onsite.

All DeVry campus locations will remain closed to students, and campus colleagues are working remotely. Only essential staff will be onsite.

Faculty and staff were advised of this update on Monday, July 20th. Students were updated Wednesday, July 22nd. We have shared this plan with our accreditor, the Higher Learning Commission, and we will keep you informed as we navigate this evolving situation.

If you have any questions or require additional information, please feel free to contact me directly at 630-515-5828 or via email at Barbara.Bickett@devry.edu.

Sincerely,

Barbara Bickett
