

COLLEGE COMPLETION

Data At-a-Glance

Traditional college graduation rates typically include only first-time, full-time students who finish at the same college they started at and with the same degree type they originally sought. Though an on-time degree will always be the most cost-effective path to college completion, the Total Campus Completion Rate includes both students who graduate on-time as well as those who take longer to earn their degrees. The Total Student Completion Rate provides an even fuller picture of college completion by capturing all students who cross the finish line, regardless of where they complete or what degree they ultimately earn. This includes part-time as well as full-time students, transfer students and students who change to another degree type. Every graduate brings Indiana closer to reaching its 60 percent educational attainment goal, and each Hoosier student must be acknowledged and accounted for in addressing the state's completion challenge.

Campus-Level Completion Data

A note about campus comparisons: Each higher education institution faces different challenges in its efforts to improve completion and student success. Indiana colleges have different missions, different admission standards and different student populations with varying levels of academic preparation. When comparing completion rates, a campus is best measured by its improvement over its own past performance. In future versions of the Completion Reports, the Commission will highlight innovative strategies on Indiana college campuses that are producing results in increasing degree completion and on-time graduation.
