Re: Public Records Request 17-28

Dear Mr. Cook:

The Office of Governor Eric J. Holcomb (the "Governor's Office") is providing a further response to your public records requests that were sent pursuant to Indiana's Access to Public Records Act ("APRA"). Specifically, you submitted requests for the following:

1. Mike Pence's personal email accounts (including but not limited to mpence1314@aol.com) and any non-state government account (that is, any account that does not end with "in.gov") from Jan. 13, 2013 to July 13, 2013, containing the words "security," "homeland," "safety," "terror," "terrorism," "terrorist," "terrorists," or "national guard."
2. Mike Pence's personal email accounts (including but not limited to mpence1314@aol.com) and Bill Smith from Jan. 14, 2013 to July 13, 2013, containing the word "security," "homeland," "safety," "terror," "terrorism," "terrorist," "terrorists," or "national guard."
3. Mike Pence's personal email accounts (including but not limited to mpence1314@aol.com) and any non-state government account (that is, any account that does not end with "in.gov") from Nov. 1, 2015 to April 20, 2016, containing the word "refugee," "refugees," "Syria," or "Syrian."
4. Mike Pence's personal email accounts (including but not limited to mpence1314@aol.com) and Bill Smith from Nov. 1, 2015 to April 20, 2016, containing the word "refugee," "refugees," "Syria," or "Syrian."
5. Mike Pence's state and personal email accounts (including but not limited to mpence1314@aol.com, mpence1959@aol.com and MRP@gov.in.gov) and Donald Trump from June 25, 2016 to Dec 31, 2016, containing the word "Vice President," "VP," "veep," "Ted," "Cruz," "running mate," "golf," "New Jersey," "breakfast," "dinner," "audition," "pick," "meet," or "meeting."

6. Mike Pence's state and personal email accounts (including but not limited to mpence1314@aol.com, mpence1959@aol.com and MRP@gov.in.gov) and any non-state government account (that is, any account that does not end with "in.gov") from June 25, 2016 to Dec 31, 2016, containing the word "Trump," "Donald," "DT," "DJT," "Vice President," "VP," "veep," "running mate."

7. Mike Pence's state and personal email accounts (including but not limited to mpence1314@aol.com, mpence1959@aol.com and MRP@gov.in.gov) and Bill Smith from June 25, 2016 to Dec 31, 2016, containing the word "Trump," "Donald," "DT," "DJT," "Vice President," "VP," "veep," "running mate."

8. Mike Pence's state or personal email accounts (including but not limited to mpence1314@aol.com, mpence1959@aol.com, and MRP@gov.in.gov) and Jim Atterholt from June 25, 2016 to Dec 31, 2016, containing the word "Trump," "Donald," "DT," "DJT," "Vice President," "VP," "veep," "running mate."

For Request #2 above, copies of records responsive to the request are provided with this letter. As a courtesy, these records are being provided to you free of charge. For this request, we searched the emails produced electronically by the former governor from his email accounts for documents to/from Bill Smith in the relevant time period that contain the word: "security," "homeland," "safety," "terror," "terrorism," "terrorist," "terrorists," or "national guard." In addition, records, and portions of records, have been withheld from disclosure, and are not being produced in this response, in accordance with and as permitted by the laws of the State of Indiana, as follows: (i) Indiana Code § 5-14-3-4(b)(6), records that are advisory or deliberative material; (ii) Indiana Code § 5-14-3-4(b)(5), records relating to negotiations between the Indiana economic development corporation. . .with industrial, research, or commercial prospects, if the records are created while negotiations are in progress; and/or (iii) Indiana Code § 5-14-3-4(a)(3), documents required to be kept confidential by federal law. The person responsible for the denial and/or withholding of records, or portions thereof, is Mr. Joseph R. Heerens, General Counsel.

With respect to Requests #4, #5, #7 and #8, as you are aware, the Governor's Office recently received an electronic production of records from the former governor's accounts, and is currently in the process of performing searches to identify responsive documents. The Governor's Office anticipates the searches involving these requests will be completed in the near future and that responses will be forthcoming on a rolling basis.

An additional response will be provided to advise you of progress on these requests by the end of August 2017.

Lastly, upon further review of Requests #1, #3 and #6, our office has determined that clarification is necessary before records can be located and produced. APRA requires that a request for public records be made with "reasonable particularity."¹ The Indiana Public Access Counselor ("PAC") has published advisory opinions regarding the phrase "reasonable particularity" (and this is important in order for a governmental agency to be able to accurately and efficiently locate and disclose records responsive to a public records request). Records requests for e-mail correspondence should identify a specifically named sender and recipient, a date range of less than six months, as well as search terms.² As even a relatively small records request can yield a very large number of documents, the PAC recommends that document searches start small (which allows a governmental agency to more quickly locate responsive records and the requester may follow-up with subsequent public records requests as needed).³

Currently, the above Requests #1, #3 and #6 ask for all state related e-mails that were communicated between former Governor Mike Pence's state and personal e-mail accounts and any non-state government accounts. Your requests that the Governor's Office search all communications that were sent to or from all non-state government accounts does not comport with the requirements identified in the immediately preceding paragraph, and is not reasonably particular for purposes of an APRA request. Therefore, we ask that you amend Requests #1, #3 and #6 so they comply with the "reasonable particularity" requirement. To be clear, the Governor's Office is not denying your request; to the contrary, this office is merely asking that these requests be amended in order to satisfy the APRA requirements. After receipt of your amended requests that meet these requirements, this office will begin searching for responsive records.

As noted by the foregoing, our office is working to fulfill or otherwise address the record requests, and will keep you informed of our progress as we continue to satisfy them.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Wilson
Press Secretary

Thanks--Here's the draft release I just put together. Just fyi. Excuse typos.

Washington DC-U.S. Representative Duncan Hunter made the following statement regarding the decision of Governor Mike Pence to proceed with consideration of plans to permit Fatima Group-a Pakistan-based fertilizer manufacturer-to build a plant in the state of Indiana.

"As soon as I learned about Fatima Group's interest in opening a fertilizer plant in Indiana, I spoke with Governor Pence and expressed my serious concerns resulting from Fatima Group's inability to regulate the transfer of calcium ammonium nitrate fertilizer into Afghanistan as ingredients for improvised explosive devices (IEDs). Governor Pence shared the same concerns and took necessary and appropriate steps to put the plan on hold pending his review. In the time since, Fatima Group has taken significant steps to better regulate the transfer of calcium ammonium nitrate.

"Preceding these improvements, there had been limited movement from Fatima Group. Reducing IED incidents in Afghanistan has been a persistent challenge throughout the course of operations. In the case of Fatima Group, if we can leverage the American dollar and harness the strength of the marketplace to do what's needed, then that's a good thing. Regardless of how discussions between the state of Indiana and Fatima Group proceed, Governor Pence deserves credit in helping to ensure the company is taking steps to improve its distribution, packaging and tracking procedures in order to prevent fertilizer from ending up in the wrong hands.

"On the issue of Fatima Group and IEDs more broadly, it's also necessary to acknowledge the good work of General Michael Barbero, Director of the Joint Improvised Explosive Device Defeat Organization (JIEDDO). General Barbero has been at the leading edge of counter-IED efforts and, because of his leadership and JIEDDO's commitment to protecting the warfighter, there is better cooperation between the U.S., Pakistan and Fatima Group-cooperation that is leading to better control and management of fertilizer as an IED precursor.

"For the state of Indiana, the next steps will be determined by Governor Pence and his team. I'm fully confident, knowing the Governor's concern for the safety of our military men and women, that he will not proceed with any business plan without guarantees from Fatima Group that it's doing all it can to self-regulate its products."

Greg, here you will find the resume of Brian Pawlowski, an excellent man with outstanding brain and spine, with whom I have worked for the past year. He wants to return to Indy and work for the Gov.

If I were Gov. Pence I would hire Brian and keep him very close to me. He's smart as hell, tough as nails, and a pleasure to be with. He's been tested in every way and has excelled.

Best

INDIANAPOLIS – The Adjutant General of the Indiana National Guard, Maj. Gen. R. Martin Umbarger was notified today and received a press release put out by Department of Defense on the off-ramp of three Indiana National Guard units slated to deploy in support of Operation Enduring Freedom. These units will be off-ramped from mission as a result of an immediate FY13 budget shortfall.

The three units slated for these missions includes; 1st Battalion, 293rd Infantry, 1st Squadron, 152nd Cavalry, and Company D, 113th Combat Support Battalion. The units were set to deploy in June 2013.

The combination of the Budget Control Act of 2011, sequestration, and the underfunding of fiscal year 2013 Overseas Contingency Operations requirements have severely constrained the Army's ability to perform directed missions with previously planned Reserve Component forces.

The Adjutant General of the Indiana National Guard, Maj. Gen. R. Martin Umbarger, is proud of the Soldiers in the Indiana National Guard for preparing for these missions and answering the call to service. The unpredictability of our fiscal environment coupled with the military downsizing has contributed to this situation.

"I am deeply troubled by the late timing of this announcement and the impact it will have on everyone. Our Citizen Soldiers, Families and employers deserve more predictability," said Umbarger.

The Indiana National Guard and senior leadership are committed to working with the families and Soldiers as they continue to train and be prepared to answer our Nation's call at any time.

ADVOCATES: HHS SHOULD KILL INDIANA MEDICAID WAIVER REQUEST - Consumer advocates pleaded with the Obama administration Thursday to scuttle an effort by Indiana to accept billions of dollars in Obamacare Medicaid funding in exchange for maintaining strict enrollment caps and cost-sharing requirements. The groups, including Families USA, the American Cancer Society, and First Focus, argue that enrollment caps would violate the spirit of Medicaid as a safety-net program and run counter to recently issued HHS guidance. And the cost-sharing, they said, would require even someone without income to pay $160 a year. "In short, we do not believe that these aspects of Indiana's request comport with the objectives of the Medicaid statute, and therefore Indiana's request for demonstration authority should not be approved," they wrote in a letter to Secretary Kathleen Sebelius.

SB 1 – School safety, Sen. Pete Miller. Passed 43-7. Moves to House, sponsored by Torr, Steuerwald, Lawson, and Behning.

SB 125 – Committee on child services oversight, Sen. Holdman. Establishes a study committee on improving the status of children. Passed (I missed the vote total).

SB 305 – Child care regulation, Sen. Holdman. This bill originally would have regulated child care ministries in a way that many did not support. The current language, as I understand it, represents an agreement with those folks. This bill now addresses sanitation standards at child care facilities and some other matters. We'll want to watch this because it's a good candidate to get other things attached to it in the House, but it has wide acceptance right now: it passed 50-0.

HB 1337 — Turnaround and accountability for k-12. This bill is being held until later in the evening because Rep. Behning is doing a rare 3rd reading amendment and they are allowing time for the Ds to read the amendment. Essentially, it's the House attempt to address A-F in a way that doesn't dismantle the entire system like the Senate bill I referenced earlier. More on this one later.

HB 1334 — Teacher liability insurance and paycheck protection (Governor's Agenda bill), Rep. Thompson. Passed with 62 votes. I am getting the vote sheet now; I didn't hear how many no votes and how many were excused. I am certain we didn't get any bipartisan support on this bill.

A U.S. unit of the company, Midwest Fertilizer, has proposed building a plant in Indiana that promises 2,500 construction and 309 permanent jobs. Midwest issued $1 billion in bonds to finance the plant, but Indiana Gov. Mike Pence suspended state support after learning of Barbero's longstanding criticism of Fatima's failure to control its inventory.

U.S., Pakistan seek breakthrough to thwart bomb makers

By Barbara Starr

The United States and Pakistan will begin working together on a new fertilizer formula that could be a significant technological step to limit the ability of terror groups to make improvised explosives and car bombs using the ingredient.

An agreement to try to make a product more inert was reached last week after Pakistani officials from Fatima Group, a major fertilizer manufacturer, met with Pentagon officials.

"Such a long-term solution would be a true scientific breakthrough," Lt. Gen. Michael Barbero, the head of the Pentagon's Joint Improved Explosive Device Defeat Organization, said in a statement.

Barbero met with Fatima representatives to urge them again to take steps to control fertilizer inventories. The meeting itself was a step forward since the Pakistani government previously had stopped the U.S. military from talking directly to the company.

Fatima Group is the Pakistani-based producer of calcium ammonium nitrate (CAN). It was developed as a non-explosive alternative to ammonium nitrate, long a key ingredient in homemade bombs used widely in Pakistan and in Afghanistan. But it can be converted into an explosive mixture.

Hundreds of American troops have been killed by improvised explosive devices containing the material.

Pakistan and the United States will now work on a "reformulated" CAN product in hopes of reducing its effectiveness in homemade bombs.

It is produced by two factories in Pakistan that are both owned and operated by Fatima. It also has now confirmed to the Pentagon in writing that it has suspended sales of CAN fertilizer products in the border provinces to 228 dealers in the area.

It is also working on plans for more readily visible bagging of CAN in hopes Pakistani border control agents will stop smuggling when they see it. Barbero is still pressing for color dyeing so it can more readily be identified.

Fatima may have its own economic reasons for trying to improve its practices.

A U.S. unit of the company, Midwest Fertilizer, has proposed building a plant in Indiana that promises 2,500 construction and 309 permanent jobs. Midwest issued $1 billion in bonds to finance the plant, but Indiana Gov. Mike Pence suspended state support after learning of Barbero's longstanding criticism of Fatima's failure to control its inventory.

Barbero's frustration with a lack of progress by Pakistan and Fatima was evident last year when he publicly detailed how insurgents have learned to process and convert CAN into explosive material that can be used with a fuel to create a bomb.

In a May, Barbero spoke to an international meeting of fertilizer companies and experts in Doha, Qatar.

U.S. officials tell CNN that the details Barbero disclosed are publicly available on the Internet, but it's still rare for an American military official to speak openly about the detailed chemistry of bomb making.

In December 2012, Barbero testified before Congress and was highly critical of both Fatima and the Pakistan government for failure to exert control over fertilizer and other components of bomb-making material.

He noted the use of another substance found in IEDs, potassium chlorate, has been on the rise in Afghanistan for the past year. Although the Afghan government bans its importation, it is legally imported into Pakistan for use in the textile and matchstick industries and often stolen by insurgents for used in bomb making.

According to the Pentagon, homemade explosives continue to be the main charge of IEDs found in Afghanistan. Most of the roughly 87 percent of IEDs that contain homemade explosive material are comprised of ammonium nitrate derived from Pakistani-produced calcium ammonium nitrate fertilizer.

Even with the impending drawdown of U.S. troops in Afghanistan, the threat of those explosives remains significant.

The Pentagon says more than 1,900 U.S. troops were killed or wounded in such IED attacks in 2012, accounting for more than 60 percent of American combat casualties.

There were nearly 14,500 IED-related events in Afghanistan last year, including both detection and attacks.

Barbero is also strongly making the point that the threat of homemade bombs is spreading around the world, including North Africa where al Qaeda affiliates are on the rise.

Since January 2011, there have been more than 10,000 IEDs placed in 112 countries, with attacks carried out by more than 40 regional and transnational threat networks.

Explosives involving ammonium nitrate have been the choice of insurgents in several recent high-profile attacks.

A 2011 Mumbai attack involved three bombs containing the fertilizer that killed 27 people and injured 130 others.

Also that year, a car bomb in Norway killed eight people. Six tons of ammonium nitrate and calcium ammonium nitrate were used in the attack.

"The Oslo bomber was able to easily purchase and store massive amounts of fertilizer by simply establishing a fake farming business and easily converting fertilizer into a bomb," Barbero said.

Mumbai and the attack in central Oslo were not tied to Pakistan, but Barbero spoke about them in terms of what he sees as the growing global threat.

Star Washington Bureau – Maureen Groppe

WASHINGTON — Gov. Mike Pence hopes Washington finds a better way to cut billions from the federal budget — including tens of millions in dollars to his state — than the reductions scheduled to begin Friday under so-called sequestration.

But the Indiana Republican said Monday that the pending across-the-board cuts should be exchanged only with "smarter, more responsible" spending cuts, and not more tax revenues as Democrats advocate.

About 6.4 percent of Indiana's revenue comes from federal grants that are subject to the cuts, known as sequestration, according to the Pew Center on States.

But if no deal is reached to avoid them, Pence said, Indiana is in strong fiscal position to weather the cuts.

"Indiana is the fiscal envy of the country," Pence said in an interview. "As our (proposed) budget showed, we have the ability to increase funding for schools, for roads, for adult job training<image001.png> and education and still afford a 10 percent income tax cut."

As the nation's governors wrapped up a four-day conference in Washington, President Barack Obama urged them to lobby their congressional delegations to prevent the cuts.

"Remind them in no uncertain terms exactly what is at stake and exactly who is at risk<image001.png>," Obama told the governors during a White House meeting. "Congress can turn them off any time with just a little bit of compromise."

The White House released Sunday state-by-state estimates of the spending cuts to education, defense, law enforcement, health, nutrition, child care and other programs in states.

Pence, a former member of Congress, rejected the president's argument that the level of cuts could be reduced if Democrats agree to changes in entitlement programs and Republicans agree to make changes in the tax code. Pence said that wasn't the deal when he and other members of Congress voted in 2011 to raise the debt ceiling in exchange for $1.2 trillion in cuts over 10 years.

"I really made the point to the president that, in my view, sequestration was a part of an agreement between the administration and Congress to ensure that there would be dollar-for-dollar spending cuts for any increase in the debt ceiling," Pence said.

"When we included sequestration (in the budget deal), we did so believing that it would be replaced by smarter and more reasonable and responsible spending cuts and spending reforms. No one thought the best way to find savings was an across-the-board cut."

This year, $85 billion will be cut between March 1 and Sept. 30, the end of the fiscal year. That could mean the loss of 750,000 jobs nationally, according to the Congressional Budget

Office.

A figure like $85 billion in a roughly $3.8 trillion budget may not seem like much.

But about $3 trillion of the budget can't be touched because it pays for entitlement programs such as Medicaid, interest on the debt or programs that are exempt from cuts because they're considered vital to the nation's safety or security.

The sequestration cuts for this fiscal year were supposed to take effect Jan. 1, but Congress delayed them by two months.

That means that instead of being spread out over an entire 12-month fiscal year, the $85 billion in spending reductions will be compressed into the next seven months. What would otherwise be a 10 percent reduction spread over a year is now a reduction of more than 18 percent through Sept. 30.

Roughly half of the cuts will come from defense programs.

The Defense Department has estimated that about 11,000 civilian employees in Indiana would have to take unpaid days off between late April and September. That would mean a 20 percent pay cut for the employees, a combined $64.4 million loss.

Camp Atterbury, near Edinburgh, would see a $1.4 million reduction in base operations. The Army's ammunition works at the Crane Naval Service Warfare Center in southwestern Indiana would see a $36 million reduction.

On the non-defense side, Medicaid — the largest source of federal grants to Indiana — and Social Security are exempt from the reductions, but Medicare payments to doctors and hospitals will be cut up to 2 percent.

Grants to states that would be affected fund education, health care, public safety, nutrition programs, child care assistance and other help.

Some of the biggest hits would be in education. The Title I grants that go to schools which disproportionately serve low-income families would be cut by $13.8 million. The White House said that means about 50 fewer schools would get funding and 190 teachers or aides could lose their jobs.

The K-12 cuts won't begin until the 2013-2014 school year because grants have already been awarded for the current year. But local districts will have to make staffing decisions this spring.

"Districts will have to plan on less funding," Education Secretary Arne Duncan told Congress recently. "Fewer teachers and staff could mean larger class sizes, fewer courses<image001.png> or subject areas, less tutoring for struggling students, reductions in counseling, and more difficulty in retaining recently hired teachers. And, local economies will suffer from the higher unemployment and the uncertainty of the staff."

In other affected areas, the administration has estimated:

- The control towers at 100 of the nation's smallest airports will be closed, including up to six in Indiana.
- Up to 600 kids could lose access to child care.
- Indiana will lose about $3.3 million for clean water and air quality programs.
- Around 24,290 fewer Hoosiers will receive help finding a job.
- Indiana would lose around $800,000 in funds to provide meals to seniors.
- Although Pell Grants are exempted from the cuts, work-study assistance is not. The administration says that about 1,000 fewer Indiana college students would get work-study jobs.

The Senate is expected to vote this week on a Democratic plan to avert this year's sequester cuts with a package that includes higher taxes on those earning more than $1 million a year and elimination of direct payments to farmers. Indiana farms received about $183 million in direct payments in 2011.

A Senate Republican proposal would keep the amount of cuts in place, but give the administration the authority to distribute the cuts as they want, instead of using the across-the-board percentage.

"Rather than resorting to scare tactics, President Obama should abandon his call for more taxes and instead agree to responsible, targeted alternative spending reductions," said Sen. Dan Coats, R-Ind.

Rep. Andre Carson, D-Indianapolis, said Democrats want a "fair and balanced plan."

A recent poll conducted by the Pew Research Center found that three of four Americans say a deficit plan should include both tax increases and spending cuts, akin to the "balanced" approach Obama backs. While there is stronger support to cut spending than raise taxes, only one in five say a deficit-reduction package should rely solely on spending cuts, the position embraced by House Speaker John Boehner.

If the president and Congress can't reach a budget deal by Friday, half of Americans say they should delay the spending cuts. But a significant number, four in 10, say the cuts should be allowed to go into effect.

That attitude could reflect "crisis fatigue," said Michael Dimock, director of the Pew Research Center for the People & the Press. "They've seen one crisis after another, and now they're told yet another one is coming. A pretty large share of them, even a third of Democrats, are saying, 'Just let it happen.' They're throwing up their hands."

Sir,

Please see below. I believe this is the first KIA on your watch. In the past the Governor (Daniels), only attended In. National Guard Funerals from overseas.

We (IDVAS), plan to meet the family & present the Flag (US & State flag), or, just one depending on wishes of the family . I wanted to make sure your office knew of this loss & if you wished to visit the family . It is really up to Governor as to his wishes. The Families always were helped by having the Governor attend, it made a sad moment take on a purer & more noble tone for the family. That the loss has meaning to our Family of Citizens within the fabric of the State.

This is just for your information & consideration. If the Governor did enter the picture , we will take any lead & be there in advance of his arrival.

I believe Governor Daniels kept it to Nat'l Guard because of the increased number & his schedule. It is something to consider, once he does one , folks/press will always remark that he wasn't there.

GOVERNOR APPOINTS MEMBERS TO STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
Pence Names Four New Appointments, Two Reappointments to Board

Indianapolis – Governor Mike Pence today announced four new appointments and two reappointments to the State Board of Education. The appointees will serve four-year terms effective July 1st.

With extensive educational leadership experience across the nation, Dr. David Freitas has been named the Second Congressional District appointee to the State Board of Education. Throughout his three-decade career, Freitas has served as an elected City School Board Member, a State-appointed member of the Illinois Educator Preparation and Licensure Board, a State Department of Education Official in Massachusetts, a College Dean of Education for more than 20 years, a consultant for the U.S. Department of Education, and an instructor and mentor for more than 1,000 school superintendents and K-12 school principals throughout America as a University Professor of Educational Leadership. A frequent national and international invited speaker on a variety of education topics, Freitas has delivered remarks in nearly every large city in America, as well as in ten foreign countries on three continents. Freitas, of Granger, earned his doctoral and masters degrees from Boston University.

Andrea Neal has been appointed to the Board to represent the Fifth Congressional District. Neal recently completed her tenth year of teaching U.S. History and English at St. Richard's Episcopal School in Indianapolis. As an adjunct scholar with the Indiana Policy Review Foundation, she has written a bi-weekly column published in 25 Indiana newspapers. Neal worked at The Indianapolis Star from 1989 to 2003 where she served as reporter, assistant city editor, editorial writer and editorial page editor. During her time at The Star, she received a number of awards including First Prize in the National Awards for Education Reporting in 1998. Neal, a resident of Indianapolis, graduated magna cum laude from Brown University.

An educational leader in Indiana for more than 20 years, Dr. Brad Oliver has been named to the State Board of Education for the Sixth Congressional District. Since 2009, Oliver has served as Associate Dean and Education Unit Head at Indiana Wesleyan University. He has served in a number of capacities within education throughout his career including as an elementary teacher, an elementary principal and assistant superintendent, a central office director and a past member of Indiana's Title I Committee of Practitioners. In 2010, Oliver was appointed by Governor Mitch Daniels to the Indiana Professional Standards Advisory Board. Oliver, of Muncie earned his undergraduate degree from Marshall University and his masters, education specialist and doctorate degrees from Ball State University.

In the Ninth Congressional District, Troy Albert has been named to the Board. Albert, who currently serves as Henryville Jr. Sr. High School Principal, is preparing to enter his seventh year in this role and his 32nd year in education. During this time, he has served as a teacher for 13 years, an assistant principal and athletic director for eight years and a principal for ten years. In November of 2012, Albert was named High School Principal of the Year for District 12 by the Indiana Association of School Principals. Following the devastating tornado that struck Henryville in March of 2012, Albert has worked to instill confidence in school safety procedures for natural disasters both here in Indiana and in other states, such as Oklahoma. Albert, of Henryville, earned his undergraduate degree from Manchester College and his masters degree from Indiana University-Purdue University Fort Wayne.

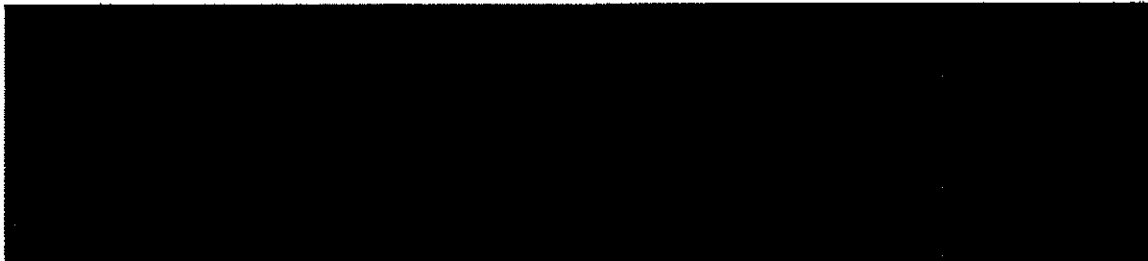

Sarah O'Brien, of Avon, a first grade teacher at River Birch Elementary, and Dan Elsener, of Indianapolis, who serves as President of Marian University, have been reappointed to the State Board of Education for the Fourth Congressional District and Seventh Congressional District, respectively.

Neil Pickett, of Carmel, who formerly served as the Fifth Congressional District appointee, has been named to the Indiana Career Council, and James Edwards, of Santa Claus, who was the appointee for the Ninth Congressional District, will now serve on an Indiana Works Council.

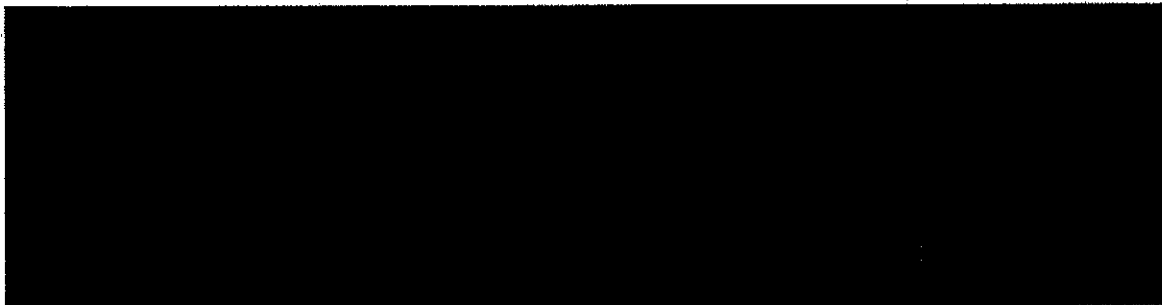

"As we strive to make Indiana the state where education works for all kids, we thank the individuals named today to the Indiana State Board of Education for their commitment to making this goal a reality," said Governor Pence. "Their wealth and diversity of experience, both in the classroom and in leadership positions across our state and nation, will bring unique perspective to the Board and will greatly benefit Hoosier children and their families in the years ahead."

Subject: Paula Cooper

Ben,

Thanks for getting back to me. Here is a synopsis of the issue about which I would like to speak with the Governor.

Paula Cooper was convicted of a highly notorious murder that she committed when she was 15 years old and, in 1986, was sentenced to die in Indiana's electric chair. Here is a fuller account of the case http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Paula_Cooper.

Because of her age, the case elicited an uproar on an international stage. Pope John Paul II took an interest in the case and asked for clemency. Her sentence was eventually commuted to life in prison.

As I understand it, she will be released from Rockville Women's Correctional Facility on June 17th, 2013. Several groups have approached me asking that I intervene with the Governor on behalf of Ms. Cooper. According to these groups, which include local representatives of Amnesty International as well as a well-known Catholic anti-death penalty association in Rome, Italy, the Department of Corrections insists that she live with her mother in Hammond. The mother allegedly has problems with alcohol and there are other conditions in the home which are causing great anxiety for Paula. What is more, I am told that she has received some death threats from the Hammond area and these threats are publicized in the blogosphere.

Several weeks ago I spoke with the director of Catholic Charities for the Archdiocese, David Siler, to see if we might help settle Paula in Indianapolis. He investigated the question and reported the following:

The most helpful information that I have gotten is from a contact of mine in the probation department. I have learned that Paula submitted a request to probation to live in a halfway house here in Indy and was denied and also made two requests to live with friends in Indy and was denied. As you learned, she does not want to live with her mother in Hammond, but that is the only placement that has been approved by the court.

I have not been able to identify any service providers in Central Indiana that are even willing to take Paula and we in Catholic Charities are not equipped to provide the resources that she will need. Therefore at this time, I don't see a way for us to advocate on her behalf to come to Indy. I even talked to the Governor's public policy advisor on public safety and she was willing to help, but agreed that without a very experienced provider in re-entry services ready to serve Paula, that there was nothing she could do.

It seems that her best option is going to be for a mentor or group of mentors in Hammond to become very actively engaged with her re-entry. I was told by someone very familiar with Paula's case that due to the nature of her crime, that even though many years have passed, Paula is still very hated in the community and doubts that anyone will give her a job and that she will likely be at great personal risk in the area.

After reading David's report, I decided to ask the Governor to intervene.

As I noted at the beginning, Paula Cooper was convicted of a very heinous crime: the brutal murder of an elderly woman. Paula is Afro-American; her victim was white. However, the Department of Corrections seems satisfied that Paula has been rehabilitated and is prepared to release her from prison. My plea to the Governor is to intervene so that Paula's crime is not compounded by violence that could be visited upon her or that the rehabilitation she has achieved after serving 27 years is not destroyed because of her post-release placement into harmful circumstances. I believe that this is a potential disaster that can be prevented, if Paula was not forced to return to Hammond.

Thank you for your consideration. I will be happy to provide further clarification and speak with the Governor at his convenience.

I just got this email from christina. Please continue to keep me informed of weather related preparations and planning.

We can make a decision about our office and staff on Sunday night but I want to be certain IDHS, INDOT and ISP are all taking appropriate actions.

I would also like to be kept informed, in real time, of any major incidents or threats to public safety during the storm.

Also, Jenn.....I may want to spend some time Sunday with INDOT or IDHS to observe operations

Thanks

I placed Rob Carter's resignation letter on your desk. I received it yesterday afternoon. His last day is April 26th. I called him and he said that Ivy Tech asked him to come on board earlier, rather than later to help with campus safety issues.

I already have a call into Cam Clark for an initial interview. We can discuss later, but wanted you to know I'm working on it.

Sir,

Please see below. I believe this is the first KIA on your watch. In the past the Governor (Daniels), only attended In. National Guard Funerals from overseas.

We (IDVAS), plan to meet the family & present the Flag (US & State flag), or, just one depending on wishes of the family .

I wanted to make sure your office knew of this loss & if you wished to visit the family . It is really up to Governor as to his wishes. The Families always were helped by having the Governor attend, it made a sad moment take on a purer & more noble tone for the family. That the loss has meaning to our Family of Citizens within the fabric of the State.

This is just for your information & consideration. If the Governor did enter the picture , we will take any lead & be there in advance of his arrival.

I believe Governor Daniels kept it to Nat'l Guard because of the increased number & his schedule. It is something to consider, once he does one , folks/press will always remark that he wasn't there.

Governor, hope I have the right email address for you.

Thank you for your time yesterday in Chicago. You did a wonderful job of driving home Indiana's commitment to create jobs, and using innovative infrastructure procurement methods as a key vehicle to get the job done. While we still have work to do, you have provided a sound platform to launch a successful project delivery for the Illiana!

Below is today's infrastructure news, related to the Cline Avenue Bridge in East Chicago. This has been Chris Kiefer's baby over the past 18 months.

The result is yet another strong example of how INDOT has been creative to allow private investment in infrastructure in Indiana.

Instead of INDOT simply replacing an unsafe bridge on SR 912 (we closed it in December, 2009 and demolished it in 2012) we worked to find a private investor that will build and own the replacement bridge. It is a unique partnership between the City of East Chicago and Cline Avenue Bridge, LLC that will construct a toll bridge, with no financial involvement by the State.

Nobody else is doing this yet. Estimated cost of the bridge is roughly $100M. Wow!

INDIANA DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
Driving Indiana's Economic Growth

News Release

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
June 25, 2013

Cline Ave. Land Transferred for Private Toll Bridge
S.R. 912 to receive $3M in paving as part of land exchange

EAST CHICAGO, Ind. — Demolition of the former Cline Avenue Bridge has been completed, and the Indiana Department of Transportation (INDOT) has transferred its right of way holdings to a private company. INDOT and East Chicago Mayor Anthony Copeland signed agreements in 2012 with Cline Avenue Bridge LLC — a team from United Bridge Partners of American Infrastructure MLP Funds, FIGG Bridge Companies and Lane Construction Corporation — to build a new toll bridge entirely with private funds.

As part of the transaction, sections of State Road 912 connecting the new bridge will receive approximately $3 million in resurfacing and paving work.

The new modern Cline Avenue Bridge will employ non-stop, all-electronic toll collection using the best technology available when it opens to traffic. Two basic payment programs are planned to welcome ridership by all users, both locals and visitors. Transponders that are already used for regional toll systems like the Indiana Toll Road will be able to recognize the unique frequency assigned to this crossing. For drivers without transponders, the other option will be to "pay by plate" where the license plate is recognized and a bill is sent in the mail.

Protections are in place to ensure continued transportation safety and mobility. Cline Avenue Bridge LLC will be required to follow national standards for building, inspecting, maintaining and repairing public bridges. The new bridge must meet clearance and environmental permitting requirements for the Indiana Harbor Canal.

"United Bridge Partners is excited to be a part of the East Chicago community," said Bob Hellman, Chairman of United Bridge Partners and CEO of American Infrastructure MLP Funds. "We look forward to providing a remarkable new modern bridge that is a solution to traffic congestion and will lead to a growth in jobs and opportunity for people and businesses throughout the region."

Cline Avenue Bridge LLC is currently performing land surveys, design and traffic studies. Permit application materials are also being prepared and assembled for regulatory agencies. Once permitting is completed, bridge construction is anticipated to last 24 to 30 months. All future inquiries should be referred to Kristi Aday, Cline Avenue Bridge LLC (850.224.7400 or info@clineave.com).

Bill,

Here is a brief synopsis of BOAH's involvement in the Madison County Animal Care Investigation. This story has developed throughout the day, and we have been in continuous communication with our team members at the site, as well as with the Incident Commanders.

- BOAH has been on site all day after being called by Madison County law enforcement: BOAH staff on-site have been one veterinarian and one animal health specialist.
- Local officials (the county Sheriff's office) have been and are the incident commander.
- BOAH has provided support by evaluating the live animals and the circumstances surrounding the animals, including the dead animals, and advice on the best way forward.
 - Current information indicates around 90 dead hooved mammals (sheep, goats and ponies) Potentially more dead rabbits and birds.
 - Seventeen live hooved mammals, around 50 live rabbits and several live fowl.
- BOAH is working with local officials on a plan to provide care for the remaining live animals at another site or site(s). Local officials are planning to remove the animals using their authority.
- BOAH has worked with local officials on a plan to send a few carcasses to the Purdue Animal Disease Diagnostic Laboratory for further evaluation and on a plan to dispose of the dead animal carcasses.
- BOAH will be providing the information collected to local law enforcement and county prosecutor.

- BOAH has worked with the Indiana Department of Environmental Management and Indiana Department of Homeland Security who had representatives at the site today. BOAH has communicated with the State Health Department, the county health department has been on-site.

Other background information:

The owner of the property involved:

- Is currently licensed by the state of Indiana as a livestock dealer and runs a state-licensed livestock market (The "Strawtown market").
- Is currently part owner of and manages a state-inspected meat plant.
- Neither of these licensed entities is located at the site where the investigation is taking place.

It is too early to know what the Board of Animal Health may do with these licenses as a result of today's events.

Subject: Fwd: Ft. Wayne Situation - OFFICER SAFETY/COMMUNITY CONCERNS

Fyi

Sent from my Droid Charge on Verizon 4G LTE
Bill,

After our meeting today I headed to the Ft. Wayne post and received a briefing on a current situation in Ft. Wayne. There have been several recent police action shootings within the city and normally the local PD calls in the ISP to either assist in the investigation or lead the investigation. After a police action shooting that occurred last Saturday night in the City, there is a significant public outcry concerning the facts surrounding the latest incident and there is real concern within the law enforcement community in regards to officer safety. Several hundred people surrounded the crime scene on Saturday and some in the crowd did the best they could to instigate additional violence that was specifically directed toward LE. The email below was sent to all Ft. Wayne Troopers tonight and thought that you needed to see it in the event the Governor happened to be in the area.

We certainly will keep a keen eye on this situation and of course offer any assistance we can to the city or contiguous areas until this situation calms itself over time.

Doug

Troops:

Due to the recent violence within Fort Wayne city limits, please be certain that you bring your "A" game to work with you every day. As has been demonstrated, both at night and in broad daylight, there is nothing "routine" at all in the city at this time. Think outside of the box. If you must go into the city, please make certain that you have back-up nearby.

I realize that we are law enforcement officers and it is our job to arrest bad guys. However, enforcing the law and protecting innocent citizens are both very different than spoiling for a fight. If you kick a hornet's nest, you better expect to get stung. I do not want to see anyone get hurt or caught-up in a mob. I've been surrounded in S.E. Fort Wayne before. It was not a pleasant experience. FWPD was extremely quick to respond and all ended well. I would prefer that none of you find yourself in a similar situation unnecessarily.

Be safe. Keep your head on a swivel. Perform your jobs with pride and professionalism as you always have. Back-up your brother officers at all times no matter what patch they wear on their shoulder.

'Nuff said.

Director Hill,

Good morning. Please see the attachment on the latest river observations and forecasts. This information only pertains to the rivers that are at/near moderate flood stage.

There have been no requests for state resources and no major flood stages are forecasted.

An area of high pressure will dominate the weather for the week; resulting in dry conditions. This will allow the rivers to continue to recede.

Quick information:

- 15 Rivers at/near moderate flood stage
 - o 4 Rivers (Samamonie @ Warren, Mississinewa @ Marion, White @ Centerton & Eel) have crested
 - o 2 Rivers (White @ Anderson & Nora) will crest today
 - o 3 Rivers (St. Marys @ Decatur, White @ Spencer, & Driftwood) will crest on Tuesday.
 - o 2 Rivers (White @ Elliston & Newburry) will crest on Wednesday
 - o 1 River (White @ Petersburg) will crest on Saturday
 - o 1 River (White @ Hazleton) will crest on Sunday.
 - o 2 Rivers (Wabash @Bluffton & White @Edwardsport) forecasts not available at this time.
