Surveyors Report
Surveyor Daming presented the Drainage Board with updated balances of each watershed.

The Surveyor's office was working on creating a new watershed. They were notified that the engineer that they had been working with had left Midwest. They will be reaching out to see if they can restart the process with a new engineer.

They did drainage inspections after all the rain that we received and most of everything seemed to be draining well. Most of the issues that were noted were along Little Pigeon Creek. There are 5 drains that will be worked on due to these issues, one is East of Richland and the rest are located North of Richland. There are funds for these drains but they may go to go to council, if needed.
There are complaints on Crooked Creek from 245 West to 600. This project will take a lot of money due to the size. Surveyor Daming is planning to go out and look at the site to better plan the project.
JC Haines has a bridge that needs cleaned up, Surveyor Daming has contacted State Highway, and they will coordinate to get the bridge cleaned up as part of the drainage project when it has started.

President Webb asked how the maintenance for Little Pigeon Creek is funded since part of it is located within Warrick County. Daming stated that he is unsure and it seems to have always been a question that no one is sure of.
