Hi Shelley. We received the inquiry below. We're pretty sure we've gotten these questions before so we will look into how they have been answered in the past and work on drafting a response for you to see. Let me know if you have any additional guidance on how to respond, or if you would prefer to respond on your end. Let us know if you do. Otherwise, we'll send you our thoughts.

Thanks!

My name is Josh Israel and I'm a reporter with ThinkProgress in Washington, DC.

I'm trying to find out how much in TANF money the state of Indiana has spent annually on funding for Real Alternatives and other Crisis Pregnancy Centers and under which category of TANF expenses those are classified ((1) assisting needy families so children can be cared for in their own homes or the homes of relatives; (2) reducing the dependency of needy parents by promoting job preparation, work, and marriage; (3) preventing out-of-wedlock pregnancies; or (4) encouraging the formation and maintenance of two-parent families)

Can you provide me with this information or point me to where I might find it?

Thanks,
Josh Israel

Check out the article at the bottom of the clips on Real Alternatives. It includes a TERRIBLE quote from Jim Gavin that does nothing to defend the use of TANF dollars.

“There was a TANF policy change effective November 2011 that required an up-front job search to be completed at the point of application before we would proceed in authorizing TANF benefits,” Jim Gavin, a spokesman for the state’s Family and Social Services Administration (FSSA), told Rewire. “Most [applicants] did not complete the required job search and thus applications were denied.”

Abortion Rate Continues to Decline Under the Pence Administration

Less Than 8,000 Abortions Occurred in 2015

INDIANAPOLIS - A new report by the Indiana State Department of Health (ISDH) shows that the abortion rate continues to decline in Indiana. In 2015, there were 7,957 abortions, compared to 8,118 in 2014. Abortions have declined in Indiana for seven consecutive years. Indiana's all-time high number of abortions was 16,505 in 1980.

The report shows that chemical abortions, a drug combination of Mifepristone and Misoprostol, continues to increase. In 2015, chemical abortions accounted for 27.9 percent of abortion procedures. Other procedures used in Indiana in 2015 were dilation and evacuation (19 abortions) and suction curettage (5,713 abortions).

Sue Swayze, Indiana Right to Life Vice President for Public Affairs, said, "If John Gregg was governor today, we would be looking at a much different trend over the last three years. The fact is, Gov. Pence's pro-life administration has promoted life over abortion, leading to another year of declining abortion numbers in Indiana. Gov. Pence's Real Alternatives program offers compassionate care at pregnancy resource centers to women in challenging situations. Indiana is a decidedly pro-life state because we have leaders willing to fight for alternatives to abortion.

"We will keep fighting for the right to life until no more babies lose their lives through abortion. The new state report indicates that 7,957 children never took their first breath and 7,957 women were sold the lie of the abortion industry. We mourn for both the lives lost and the women whose lives will never be the same. Abortion hurts both women and children."

The full state report is available at:
www.in.gov/isdh/files/2015%20TP%20Report.pdf

Indiana Right to Life's mission is to protect the right to life, especially of unborn children, through positive education, compassionate advocacy and promotion of healthy alternatives to abortion.

Hi Dave, hope all is well.

Please see the link below that shares the ongoing podcasts on TANF, episode 5 featuring both Indiana and Pennsylvania as States who use TANF funds to support "crisis pregnancy centers" that offer counseling and support to pregnant women but do not offer abortion referrals. Our Central Office has inquired and is requesting some additional information particularly Mark Greenberg the Acting Assistant Secretary.

In your amended state plan submitted March 2016 , the Pregnancy Support Program was listed as a new initiative intended to serve TANF purposes 3 and 4 encouraging the formation and maintenance of two-parent families while providing pregnancy support services to expectant parents as well as preventing and reducing the incidence of adolescent and out of wedlock pregnancies.

Below are a few questions and the link below in case you have not seen the podcast

- 1.) If Indiana is funding such centers, what funds are being use? TANF or MOE
- 2.) What is the amount of funds going to this activity or initiative ?
- 3.) According to the podcasts, this initiative has been in place since 2014, if so how much TANF funds or MOE has been spent if any?

Let me know if you have any questions, and if you can provide the information by July 22. Thanks
