Re: HFI Funds Remain in Counties

Effective September 1, 2010, DCS has allocated HFI funding to counties based on the number of live births per year per county and on the number of children in poverty in each county. This process was followed to insure that services are available to the same target population in each county.

As previously indicated, funds may be spent only in the counties in which they are allocated. If there are unspent dollars in any county toward the end of the contract year, DCS will determine if those dollars may be expended elsewhere.
