I. Chafee Older Youth Services: Youth Development & Engagement

The John H. Chafee Foster Care Program for Successful Transition to Adulthood requires states who receive grant funding to ensure youth participation in leadership activities that promote youth development and engagement directly designing their own program activities. Formalized youth advisory boards form collaborative relationships and develop additional strategic alliances at the local, state and national levels. These relationships strengthen the overall child welfare system by improving supports and services available to older youth involved in foster care. Youth should be involved in the decision making regarding activities and events; this includes but not limited to conferences, youth speakers, recruitment, volunteering, and other youth servicing opportunities.

A. Authentic Youth Engagement:

   Youth should have an opportunity to participate in activities that promote positive growth and development. These activities should allow youth to shape their lives and communities. Authentic youth engagement is the framework in which the Indiana Department of Child Services (DCS) engages youth 14 – 23. The following pillars: youth voice, youth-adult partnership, relational permanency, teachable moments, healthy risk-taking, trauma-informed care, and adolescent brain development are the programmatic foundation of DCS Older Youth Initiatives. These foundational pillars will allow foster youth to practice problem-solving, build self-esteem and increase their influence and personal stake in the community. The Youth Advisory Board (IYAB) shall provide authentic youth engagement by empowering youth to use their voice by expressing ideas, opinions, experiences, and knowledge in planning and decision making. The Youth Advisory Board shall take into account a youth's unique strengths, skills, interests, and needs (Jim Casey Youth Opportunities Initiative, 2014).

B. Leadership

   Youth participating in IYAB will develop a high level of knowledge and skills needed to become youth leaders, advocates, and mentors. Youth should engage in leadership opportunities; taking primary responsibility in strategic planning, decision-making, and problem-solving.

   Youth leadership is part of the youth development process and supports the young person in developing:

   1. the ability to analyze his or her own strengths and weaknesses, set personal and vocational goals, and have the self-esteem, confidence, motivation, and abilities to carry them out (including the ability to establish support networks in order to fully participate in community life and effect positive social change); and

   2. the ability to guide or direct others on a course of action, influence the opinions and behaviors of others, and serve as a role model (National Alliance for Secondary Education and Transition, NASET).

   IYAB participation will allow young people to develop the ability to serve others in their communities and the ability to identify and use community resources. By engaging youth through teachable moments and healthy risk-taking, youth will have an opportunity to learn self-management techniques and successful adulthood skills. IYAB initiatives and activities should promote experiential learning, build social capital, and increase well-being (Jim Casey Youth Opportunities Initiative, 2014).
