A. Chafee Older Youth Services: Youth Development & Engagement
The CHAFEE Foster Care Independence Program (CFCIP) requires states to ensure youth participate in leadership activities that promote youth development and engagement directly designing their own program activities. Formalized youth advisory boards formalize collaborative relationships and develop additional strategic alliances at the local, state and national level. These relationships strengthen the overall child welfare system of supports and services available to older youth involved in foster care.

Youth participating in youth advisory boards should be involved in the decisions made about the agenda, activities and events. This includes conferences, workshops, presentations, youth board membership recruitment, volunteering and other youth-servicing opportunities. Youth should be provided training to develop and enhance their skills in public speaking, strategic planning, board operations and membership recruitment.

1. Authentic Youth Engagement:
Youth in foster care should have an opportunity to participate in activities that promote positive growth and development. These activities should allow youth to shape their life and communities. Authentic youth engagement is the framework in which the Indiana Department of Child Services (DCS) engages youth and older youth ages 14 – 21. The following are the foundational pillars for our work with these young people: youth voice, youth-adult partnership, relational permanency, teachable moments/healthy risk-taking, trauma informed care and adolescent brain development. These pillars are the programmatic foundation of DCS Older Youth Initiatives, and will allow foster youth to practice problem-solving, build self-esteem and increase their influence and personal stake in the community. The Youth Advisory board shall provide authentic youth engagement by empowering youth to use their voice to express their ideas and opinions, and to use their experience and knowledge to help guide planning and decision making in child welfare in Indiana. The Youth Advisory Board shall take into account a youth’s unique strengths, skills, interests, and needs (Jim Casey Youth Opportunities Initiative, 2014).

2. Leadership
Youth leadership is part of the youth development process and supports the young person in developing: (a) the ability to analyze his or her own strengths and weaknesses, set personal and vocational goals, and have the self-esteem, confidence, motivation, and abilities to carry them out (including the ability to establish support networks in order to fully participate in community life and effect positive social change); and (b) the ability to guide or direct others on a course of action, influence the opinions and behaviors of others, and serve as a role model (National Alliance for Secondary Education and Transition, NASET). Youth participating in YAB will develop a high level of knowledge and skills needed to become youth leaders, advocates and mentors. Youth should engage in leadership opportunities; taking primary responsibility in strategic planning, decision-making, and problem solving.
Youth should demonstrate the ability to serve others in their communities and identify and use community resources. By engaging youth through teachable moments and helping them to learn from healthy risk taking, youth should demonstrate improved self-management, appropriate interpersonal communication, improved problem solving, and other skills necessary to transition successfully into adulthood. YAB initiatives and activities should promote experiential learning, build social capital, and increase well-being (Jim Casey Youth Opportunities Initiative, 2014).

The National Youth in Transition Database (NYTD)
Data must be reported monthly regarding Older Youth services provided to youths at age 16 and older. Due to YAB providing a service for youth the contractor is required to mark which service elements were provided to every youth during a report period. The information regarding service elements that are required for Chafee OY service providers to submit are in compliance with the Chafee National Youth in Transition Database; Final Rule and all technical documents that support the information described in this rule.
Providers can be assigned user names and passwords through the DCS NYTD helpdesk email (dcsnytd@dc.in.gov). The monthly report template will be provided by DCS and NYTD definitions and an informational webinar can be found through the following link: DCS: NYTD. Failure to upload monthly reports on time or through the NYTD web portal may result in the denial of all claims submitted for each reporting period missing a monthly report.
