  5. Program budgeting.
  7. Budgeting for outcomes (priorities).
Line-item Budgeting

- Used most often by local government.

- Simple but effective accounting process.
- Allows for good internal control.
- Wide range of management controls.
Zero-based Budgeting (ZBB)

- Adapted from the line-item budget process.
- Developed by private sector in 70’s.
- Easy but time consuming.
- Detailed down to the vendor level.
- Setting priorities
  - Needs-based
  - Wants
  - Don’t forget to PLAN for the future!
Target-based Budgeting (TBB)

- Attempts to simplify the budget process.
- Involves estimating dep’t current & future service levels.

Budgeting for Outcomes

- All budget requests are tied to those priorities.
- Establishes better procedures to increase accountability.
Budgeting in the 21st Century

  • The best of each...what makes sense for your county?

• Blending of:
  • Philosophy.
  • Performance measures.
  • Enhancement packages.
  • New spending initiatives.
  • Targeted spending levels.
  • Don’t forget revenue.
The Budget Process

1. Carried out over several months time.
2. It starts early and involves multiple steps.
3. It’s an art and a science.
4. It’s never exact; but it is precise.
5. It’s ever changing.
Budget Best Practices

• Set a calendar (timeline) and stick to it
• Clearly define your goals & objectives – collectively & individually.
• Budget requests should reflect these goals & objectives.
• This should be a collaborative process.
• You should be “working” three budget cycles at a time. Budgeting is a never-ending process.
• Budget virtually all funds...including grants, debt, TIF’s, minor & non-reverting funds, etc.
Challenges to Effective Budgeting

• Lack of engagement.
• Lack of comprehensive and on-going training.
• Unclear goals & objectives – short, medium & long-term planning.
• Excessive use of additional appropriations.
  • Through November 31.
  • 1,593 requests.
  • $1,512,221,717.
Benefits to Adopting Best Practices

• Reduction in errors.
• Ownership and accountability.
• Control over the process.
• Faster and more reliable reviews.
• More accurate revenue & expense projections.
Benefits to Adopting Best Practices

- Better and more efficient communication.
- Increased satisfaction from all stakeholders.
- Positive financial outcomes.
- Better detailed and advanced analysis.
- Financial strategy aligns with departments and county as a whole.
- More transparent to the taxpayer.
