INDIANA

CLIFTY FALLS STATE PARK

People have always been fascinated by scenes of geologic splendor, land that provides witness to the awesome forces of nature at work. With its narrow valley, sheer cliffs, and plunging waterfalls, Clifty Falls State Park is such a place.

Located on state roads 56 and 62 just west of Madison, Ind., Clifty Falls State Park was established in 1920 to preserve the falls on Clifty Creek, "a bit of original Indiana."

Initially the park consisted of 617 acres, primarily the canyon and its waterfalls. In 1965 the park more than doubled in size when it acquired adjacent uplands from Madison State Hospital. It now covers 1,519 acres.

Clifty Falls was created during the Ice Age when the southward flowing waters of Clifty Creek met the newly formed Ohio River in a spectacular plunge, a waterfall that may once have been 200 feet high. The falls has since cut its way into bedrock to a point more than two miles north of its original position. Today, at a height of 60 feet, it continues the retreat upstream at a rate of one-quarter inch per year.

Please let wild animals remain wild. Feeding deer is prohibited. Feeding of wild animals can result in harm to both animals and people. Animals who depend on handouts become a nuisance to visitors and a danger to themselves. Please lock up all food and coolers inside cars or campers. Roll up car windows tightly.

- Trails in Clifty Canyon are closed after sunset.
- Carry and use the park map.
- Young children should never be allowed to hike unsupervised. They must be attended by responsible individuals.
- Wear appropriate footwear, such as hiking boots or athletic shoes.
- Know your limits. Take your time. Hills on trails are often long and steep.
- Trails in Clifty Canyon are closed after sunset.

FOR AN ENJOYABLE TRAIL HIKE

Visitors shall observe the following rules, which are designed to fulfill the purpose for which state parks were established, namely, to preserve a primitive landscape in its natural condition for the public's use and enjoyment.
