INDIANA
DEPARTMENT of EDUCATION

An Update From the Indiana Department of Education for March 17, 2023

Indiana Department of Education sent this bulletin at 03/17/2023 07:00 AM EDT

Indiana Department of Education

Dr. Katie Jenner, Secretary of Education

A Message from Dr. Katie Jenner

Last week we kicked off a discussion surrounding rethinking high school and how locally created pathways \(LCPs\) are one solution for blurring the lines between pre-K-12, higher education, and the workforce, and ultimately, improving student outcomes. Yet, this is only the tip of the iceberg. Many of you are working every day to ensure the high school experience is an increasingly valuable one for our students.

At its core, rethinking high school is about a transformation of the high school experience in order to maximize the four years we have with our students. At the state level, while we are hard at work to re-envision not only what we measure and how we measure it, we have also heard loud and clear from you that supporting diploma flexibility is another area in which we can continue to improve for our students. This means:

- Increasing access to quality work-based learning and credentials of value for all students,
- Identifying potential barriers to access, including master scheduling (you know...the “singletons” and “doubletons” that often pigeonhole our scheduling process!), and understanding from you how increased flexibility can open more doors for students, and

- Allowing students to take courses that are more relevant to their interests and goals...and that are individualized and purposeful to their own unique path.

Greater diploma flexibility is just one driver that will allow schools to be more nimble as we prepare our students for what's ahead in life and in their careers in Indiana. Emerging industries in advanced technology are quickly becoming major economic drivers, both at home and across the country, and our role is to prepare students to meet both current and future demands.

Right now, there is a massive opportunity through the CHIPS and Science Act (shout out, Indiana Senator Todd Young, who was a key leader in this bipartisan effort) for corporations looking to invest in semiconductor research, development, and production. The Act includes $39 billion available in manufacturing incentives. This is not only a meaningful opportunity for those in STEM fields but includes technicians and construction trades as well. It is expected that tens of thousands of construction jobs will be needed as manufacturing sites are built in communities across the country.

This means that the right time to invest in these industries, as well as our talent pipeline, is now...and what an opportunity this presents for us in K-12 to provide our students greater flexibility and help them find the right fit for their needs and interests. Helping students earn a high-value credential while in high school provides a direct pathway to credential completion and in turn drives educational attainment....which we know leads to a better quality of life, increased wages, and better jobs, among other benefits. Together, we can work to empower students through a future-focused vision of their educational journey.

Here is just one example of how the work you lead is directly impacting students and our state's future economy....as the Indiana Economic Development Corporation (under the leadership of Secretary of Commerce Brad Chambers) works to attract new businesses to Indiana, our team is often asked to provide information regarding the innovative work happening at local K-12 schools. This includes ensuring students have access to pathways and opportunities that prepare them for a career in economies of the future.

Recently, there has been an increase in news about the impact of artificial intelligence on education and the world around us. In Indiana, we also saw Purdue University in spring 2022 launch the nation's first comprehensive Semiconductor Degrees Program. In addition, the state's Regional Economic Acceleration and Development Initiative, or READI, is funding a $5 million partnership between Purdue University and Ivy Tech Community College, focused on preparing high school and college students for careers in the semiconductor industry, which continues to grow in our state, including increased technician and engineer training.

Next Tuesday, in another area of the state, Thomas Edison Jr./Sr. High School in Lake Station will host a full-day Education to Business event bringing together students and local businesses to make direct connections between what they are learning in the classroom and the needs of area employers. Early exploration, engagement, and experiences in careers often start in schools, and Lake Station is helping their students get a leg up on their future by illuminating the opportunities that exist for them right in their own community. Special shoutout to Dr. Tom Cripiliver, Superintendent of Lake Station Community Schools for making this happen!

As many of you are enjoying spring break, I hope you have an opportunity for some much needed relaxation and a chance to unplug. As always, thank you for all that you do!
