JAG State Finals

Several local students brought home awards and scholarship money for their efforts last week at the 2017 Jobs for America's Graduates (JAG) Career Development Conference. The Indianapolis event was the final state competition, and challenged participants to demonstrate employability skills. Students competing in the state finals earned their spot by placing in one of the nine regional competitions across Indiana. The top two students from each regional conference competition advanced to the state finals.

Nancy Cole, Blackford High School, won the employability skills competition for the second time.

Rylee Smith from Blackford High School placed second in public speaking Central High School's Service Learning Blog team placed second.

ASG, Inc., Eastern Indiana's workforce development organization, oversees Eastern Indiana's JAG program.
