CNA/QMA Train the Trainer Refresher Class

Ivy Tech Testing Services and IDOH are hosting a Train the Trainer refresher class on Wednesday, March 20, from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. EDT. IDOH will go over the changes to the QMA curriculum and reminders regarding training program requirements and forms. Ivy Tech Testing Services will go over the testing process with some reminders.

Ivy Tech Testing Services will not be doing a full demonstration of the new online application, as there have been several, well-attended training and demonstration sessions offered. One more session is scheduled for March 15 (see below).

Registration is not required for this Train the Trainer refresher class. Please join us using the information below. The class will be recorded and posted on the Ivy Tech Testing Services website.

Ivy Tech CNA/QMA Testing Online Application Training and Demonstration Session

There is one more opportunity to attend an Ivy Tech CNA/QMA Testing Online Application Training and Demonstration Session on Friday, March 15, from 9 a.m. to noon EDT.

The training will demonstrate how the new online application system works, what you will see on the screen, how you can help your students, and more. Trainers will demonstrate both bulk and individual applications to answer the most frequently received questions.

Registration is not required. Use the information below to join.
