By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Monday, Nov. 11, 2:45 A.M. -- The armistice between Germany, on the one hand, and the Allied Governments and the United States, on the other, has been signed. The State Department announced at 2:45 o'clock this morning that Germany had signed.

The Department's announcement simply said: "The armistice has been signed."

The world war will end this morning at 6 o'clock, Washington time, 11 o'clock Paris time.

Indiana Association of Historians Walter K. Nugent Best Graduate Student Paper Award

The Best Graduate Student Paper Award, presented at the annual IAH meeting, is named in honor of Walter K. Nugent, Professor of History Emeritus at the University of Notre Dame. Professor Nugent, a renowned historian of the American West, was the Andrew V. Tackes Professor of History at the University of Notre Dame. He is the author of eleven books, including Crossings: The Great Transatlantic Migrations, 1870-1914 (1992) and the acclaimed Into the West: The Story of Its People (1999), which won the Caughey prize of the Western Historical Association, and is considered an ideal example of social-demographic history. In 1981, Professor Nugent, then teaching at Indiana University Bloomington, was elected as the first president of the Indiana Association of Historians.

Indiana Association of Historians James H. Madison Best Indiana Magazine of History Article Award

The Best Indiana Magazine of History Article Award is named in honor of James H. Madison, Thomas and Kathryn Miller Professor of History Emeritus at Indiana University Bloomington. Professor Madison is the dean of Indiana history, as his significant publications have shaped the way we interpret the state and its history. Among his many publications...

The Bennett-Tinsley Award for Undergraduate History Research and Writing

The Bennett-Tinsley encourages undergraduate research in a broad range of subjects related to Indiana and rewards excellence in history research and writing. Many areas of the state’s past, especially related to the history of women, minorities (including race, ethnicity, and gender/sexuality), refugees, peace and social justice issues, and the environment have received limited attention in Indiana historiography. The purpose of this competition is to recognize students who examine these topics and produce scholarship that advances our knowledge of these understudied areas of Indiana history.

The Indiana Historical Bureau (IHB), of the Indiana State Library, coordinates the award in partnership with the Indiana Association of Historians (IAH). It is given in honor of Pamela J. Bennett, long-time director of IHB, and Katherine Tinsley, Manchester University professor, former president of IAH, and coordinator of the Peggy Seigel Writing Competition, which was the predecessor of this award.

The Cornelius and Anna Cook O’Brien Lecture Series

Cornelius O’Brien (1885-1953) and Anna Cook O’Brien (1886-1981) shared many interests, including a dedication to history and historic preservation. Mr. O’Brien was a successful Lawrenceburg farmer, banker, and manufacturer and an active longtime member of the Indiana Historical Society, serving on its executive board and as one of its vice presidents. He also served on the State Library and Historical Board, as well as on the Purdue University Board of Trustees, and he was the Democratic Party’s nominee from Indiana for the U.S. Senate in 1944.

An early advocate of historic preservation, Mr. O’Brien’s efforts were especially directed toward restoration of a portion of the Whitewater Canal and Veraestau, his nineteenth-century family residence, which overlooks the Ohio River at Aurora and which was placed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1973. Anna Cook O’Brien continued to live at Veraestau for many years after his death. This historic site presently serves as the Indiana Landmarks’ Southeast Regional Office.

The lectureship originated at Hanover College as the “Cornelius O'Brien Lecture Series,” funded through an initial gift and then a bequest by Mr. O’Brien more than a half century ago. In 1966, Mrs. Mary O’Brien Gibson (1915-2007), the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius O’Brien, set up and served as the president of the Cornelius and Anna Cook O’Brien Foundation, which contributed additional funds to this endowed lectureship. She also requested that the lectureship be renamed “The Cornelius and Anna Cook O’Brien Lecture Series” of Hanover College.

The Cornelius and Anna Cook O’Brien Lecture is open to the public, free of charge.

Excerpt from the 1995 Annual Meeting Program:

“Founding: The idea of establishing an organization of state historians surfaced in 1979-1980 as part of the planning for the sesquicentennial of the Indiana Historical Society (IHS). Although the idea did not become a constituent part of the IHS celebration, subsequent discussions, particularly among Emma Lou Thornbrough (Butler University), Gayle Thornbrough (IHS), and Errol Stevens (IHS), led to the calling of an exploratory meeting of interested historians at the Society on May 20, 1980. A steering committee met August 11, 1980, to plan a preliminary organizational meeting of the state’s historians. The more than one hundred persons attending this meeting on October 31, 1980, in the auditorium of the State Library and Historical Building in Indianapolis had the privilege of hearing Prof. John Higham (Johns Hopkins) speak on the subject “Historians and Their Communities Today.” On March 13-14, 1981, seventy-seven historians from within the state assembled at Purdue University for the first annual meeting of the Indiana Association of Historians. An initial discussion session on Friday night chaired by Clifton J. Phillips was followed on Saturday by three sessions: “Non-Teaching Uses of History”; “Social and Economic Issues in the History of the United States”; and “World Events and Philosophies in a Changing Europe.” At the business meeting the historians officially chose to call their nascent organization “Indiana Association of Historians,” a name originally suggested by Emma Lou Thornbrough. . . . Selected as the first officers of the IAH were: President-Walter Nugent (IU-Bloomington), Vice President-Emma Lou Thornbrough (Butler), Secretary-Treasurer-Oakah L. Jones (Purdue), Program Chair-Peter Sehlinger (IU-Indianapolis).”
