

Indiana Association of Historians
Call for Papers
39th Annual Meeting
February 23, 2019
Hanover College

The Program Committee of the Indiana Association of Historians invites abstracts/proposals from college and university professors, graduate students, K-12 history educators, public historians, and independent scholars on any topic of history for the 39th Annual Meeting of the Indiana Association of Historians at Hanover College on February 23, 2019. Abstracts/proposals for individual papers, panels, posters, and roundtables on topics related to any historical subject in any field of history or to the teaching of history at the K-12, college, or university level will be considered for the program.

Individual conference papers (approximately 10 pages/2500 words) should be based on original research, but may also synthesize previous scholarship or be drawn from participant experience. Panels should consist of two or three papers with comments. While research topics related to the history of Indiana and to U.S. history more broadly conceived are always welcome, topics related to European and world history, as well as other historical fields or themes, will also receive full consideration.

The keynote speaker for the conference's Saturday luncheon will be University of Wisconsin History Professor Emeritus John Milton Cooper, Jr., author of Breaking the Heart of the World: Woodrow Wilson and the Fight for the League of Nations, who will be reflecting upon the year 1919 and Woodrow Wilson's vision for the future of the world. We will also welcome panels or papers related to these themes or to the Treaty of Versailles.

Submissions should include a one-page abstract/proposal with the author's name, institutional affiliation, status, title, and brief description (250 words or less) plus a one-page c.v. for each participant. Panel proposals should be submitted as a single document. All materials and any questions should be submitted electronically to J. Michael Raley, Associate Professor of History at Hanover College, via email attachment at: raleym@hanover.edu. The deadline for the submission of abstracts/proposals is November 16, 2018. The 2019 IAH Program Committee will notify those whose submissions have been accepted by December 21, 2018. Participants whose abstracts/proposals have been accepted must register for the conference and IAH membership, and also present their findings in person.

The Indiana Association of Historians will also award two $500 prizes at its 2019 annual meeting. The Indiana Association of Historians James H. Madison Best Article Prize will be awarded to the author of the best article published in the Indiana Magazine of History during the previous calendar year. The Walter Nugent Graduate Student Paper Prize will be given to the finest paper presented at the conference by an attending graduate student participant. The winners of these awards will be selected by a prize committee. In order to be considered for the Nugent Prize, complete papers must be submitted via email attachment by no later than January 25, 2019, to Professor J. Michael Raley at raleym@hanover.edu.
