Summary Information

Agency Name: Adjutant General's Office

Collection Name: Civil War Miscellany

Collection Dates: 1861 to 1865

Extent: 4.4 cubic feet

Restrictions: Open; Fragile

Accession Number: 1937002

Biographical/Historical Note:

The Civil War Miscellany collection is closely related to the Governor Oliver P. Morton Papers (accession 1937001). Researchers should consult the Morton Papers finding aid for detailed information about the provenance of the collection, which was transferred to the Indiana State Archives after being discovered by W.P.A. researchers in a Chicago courthouse.

Scope and Content Note:

Nearly six thousand records relating to Gov. Morton's gubernatorial tenure were discovered by the W.P.A. in Chicago. Of these, over two thousand were telegraph dispatches sent from and to Gov. Morton and his staff during the Civil War. These telegraph dispatches have been indexed and reorganized in conjunction with the Morton telegraph books and Adjutant General telegraph books, in which the dispatches often were recorded for documentation purposes. Original dispatches were matched to the messages recorded in the telegraph books to compile the database index. This database index is available to be searched by date, author/recipient of the telegram, and subject. The telegraph books have been digitized and are available online:

The remainder of the Gov. Morton records discovered in Chicago constitute the collections known as the Gov. Morton Papers and the Civil War Miscellany. In the initial organization (circa 1950s), State Archives staff created two separate components of the Papers. These were 1) the Papers (1937001), the majority of the records arranged alphabetically by author's name, and 2) the Civil War Miscellany (1937002), a subject-oriented group. The Civil War Miscellany also included some related records of the Adjutant General of Indiana. During this initial organization, State Archives Staff organized both collections by the name of their authors. In the process, three item-by-item card files/finding aids were created:

- 1) Alphabetical by name of writer/author;
- 2) Calendar (chronological order) of the manuscripts, and
- 3) Subject file of the manuscripts.

Both 1) and 2) include a brief abstract of the text of the document.

In 1995, archivists re-arranged the Papers (1937001) in a chronological order. Civil War Miscellany (1937002) retains the 1950s organization.
