IDEM's Role

- IDEM is responsible for protecting human health and the environment while providing for safe industrial, agricultural, commercial, and governmental operations vital to a prosperous economy.
- Properly designed and operated landfills provide a safe place to dispose of waste and protect Hoosiers and our environment by preventing the accidental release of harmful pollutants to air, land, and water.
- MSWLF owners and operators must obtain a major permit modification approval for any horizontal expansion greater than either one acre or more than 10% of the landfill's existing capacity and construct and operate it according to Indiana's rules for solid waste land disposal facilities. These rules are found in the Indiana Administrative Code at 329 IAC 10. This rule requires a wide range of engineered systems to protect the environment.
- IDEM's Office of Land Quality is responsible for reviewing final disposal permit applications. Engineers and geologists evaluate the landfill design drawings and operating plans to ensure they meet or exceed the rule requirements before granting a permit or approving modifications to a permit.
- In addition to issuing approvals and permits that comply with state environmental regulations designed to protect public health and our environment, IDEM is also responsible for overseeing and monitoring compliance at permitted facilities.
