Transmittal Letter for the State of Indiana

Assurance of supply and continuity of service to the scientific community is pivotal to a successful execution utilizing VWR as your primary supplier. We are confident that we can meet and exceed your needs in effecting that transition.

VWR's capacity to handle significant new business can be measured in both logistical and organizational terms. The regional distribution philosophy of maintaining the largest facilities and inventories in the scientific industry provides VWR with the physical capacity to initiate sizeable new business opportunities with no disruption.

VWR International is willing to provide the requested products and/or services subject to the terms and conditions set forth in the RFP including, but not limited to, the State's mandatory contract clauses.
