Busting Myths of Correctional Mental Health

Myth #2
Hiring a specialist will break the budget

On the contrary, MHM knows how to bring your costs under control. The nation’s leading provider of correctional mental health management and staffing, MHM can reduce lengths of stay in crisis units—or eliminate the units altogether. Our very low staff vacancy rate renders temps and agencies obsolete. Our psychotropic drug management alone can save you several hundred thousand dollars yearly.

Plus, MHM is the only company to have successfully resolved mental health litigation. So we’ll help you avoid the financial fallout of legal action.

It’s a fact—You can’t afford not to see the specialist. Contact MHM today.
Greetings,

As Governor, it is my pleasure to welcome you to Indiana and the 2008 National Mental Health Conference. We are happy to have you as guests in our state capital and hope you'll enjoy your time here.

Commissioner Donahue and the Indiana Department of Correction will be excellent hosts for a conference that is sure to provide you with new ideas, sharing of best practices, and information that will assist you in your daily challenge of managing special populations. You have the opportunity to discuss and learn about issues that will promote successful offender re-entry and improve public safety.

Though you look to have a full conference schedule, we hope you'll take the time to enjoy everything that Indianapolis has to offer. I hope that your conference experience is both educational and memorable. We look forward to providing you with our Hoosier Hospitality throughout your stay in our great state.

Sincerely,

Mitch Daniels

Letter from the Executive Chair

Welcome to Unlock the Mystery!

The hope of the Conference Committee is that you thoroughly enjoy your stay in Indianapolis, gain further insight into issues surrounding the increasing population of special needs clients, from incarceration through re-entry back into the community, and experience the opportunity to form a network of new or renewed professional contacts.

Featuring a formidable array of workshops and presenters fine-tuned by our Program Chair, William N. Elliott, Ph.D., our aim is to place Mental Health issues; across the criminal justice spectrum, to the forefront of concern and conversation in order to facilitate concepts and continuums that will address and plan for the future.

The full committee has dedicated almost three quarters of a year in the planning, design, and execution of this event. I acknowledge each member for their devotion, dedication, and belief in the vision of our Agency Head, Commissioner J. David Donahue. One key staffer that has put heart and soul into ensuring that each detail of the conference proceeded smoothly and has earned special mention is Evan Hawkins serving as Operation Chair.

Please enjoy yourself! A special blend of workshops, meals, entertainment, and charity events is presented to create a relaxed atmosphere in which to discuss serious issues that face our professions.

Respectfully,

Dan Ronay, CCE

“A Pitch for Mental Health”
Tuesday, June 24th, 7:00 p.m.
On Tuesday, June 24, 2008 at 7:00pm, the Indiana Department of Correction proudly welcomes National Mental Health Conference attendees to join us for a Night at Victory Field, home of the Indianapolis Indians. Come on out and enjoy the sights and sounds of downtown Indianapolis as we “Make a Pitch for Mental Health.”

Recognized as the “Best Minor League Ballpark in America” by prominent publications such as Baseball America and Sports Illustrated, Victory Field opened its gates July 11, 1996, and serves as home of the Indianapolis Indians, Triple-A affiliate of the Pittsburgh Pirates. The ballpark is also home to the annual City, County, and High School Baseball State Championships. On July 11, 2001, Victory Field hosted the Triple-A All-Star Game.

Located at the corner of West and Maryland Streets in downtown Indianapolis, Victory Field offers a spectacular view of the Indianapolis skyline. The $20 million facility boasts many unique features including an open concourse that offers a great view of the playing field throughout the ballpark, festival-style lawn seating, and angled outfield seats that hug the foul lines. With 12,500 permanent stadium seats and room for approximately 2,000 fans in the lawn, the ballpark can comfortably accommodate crowds of 14,500. Victory Field also features 28 luxury suites, five suite-level party areas, and two large picnic areas.

Victory Field represents the southwest border of White River State Park, an urban park that features numerous cultural, educational and recreational attractions including the Indianapolis Zoo & White River Gardens, the NCAA Hall of Champions, the Indiana State Museum, an IMAX theatre and the Congressional Medal of Honor Memorial. The northeast corner of White River State Park is bordered by the sprawling campus of IUPUI and its enrollment of over 30,000.

The city of Indianapolis has built its reputation as the “Amateur Sports Capital of the World” which is due in large part to the world-class sports facilities within its downtown. Victory Field shares the limelight with the neighboring RCA Dome, Conseco Fieldhouse, the Indiana University Natatorium, the Indianapolis Tennis Center, and the Michael E. Carroll Track & Soccer Stadium. Be a part of something great and help us “Make a Pitch for Mental Health.” To be a part of this exciting evening at Victory Field, visit the registration table or ask a National Mental Health Conference staff member.

Unlock the Mystery: Managing Mental Health from Corrections to Community
Workshop Descriptions
Monday, 1:30 - 2:45 p.m.

Stages of Treatment and Changes for Persons with Mental Illness and Substance Abuse Disorders
Presenter: Jennifer Wright, LSW, Act Center of Indiana
Focus: All

In mental health and criminal justice fields, services are often delivered in a way that, although well-intended, “miss the mark” on what the client really needs to achieve: wellness and rehabilitation. Using the Stages of Treatment/Stages of Change Model will teach the provider how to identify where a client is in their change process as well as which types of interventions “fit” with the specific stage of change. The appropriate use of this model can increase client motivation toward rehabilitation as well as reducing provider burnout.

Lake County – Indiana Forensic Diversion Program
Presenters: James Berman, MA, Director of Contracted Clinical Services, Southlake Center
Focus: Adult/Juvenile Addiction

The Lake County Forensic Diversion Program’s design and structure will be presented, emphasizing the significance of developing effective and meaningful interagency relationships and understanding of the importance of a correctional oriented, cognitive behavioral curriculum and milieu, and the components and services provided. The program’s outcome statistics and client recidivism rates will be compared against those of untreated offenders who receive incarceration only. Resources and literature regarding Forensic Diversion Programs will be provided.

Co-Presenters: Linda Grove-Paul, MPA & David Garner, MPA

Sex Offender Containment and Accountability Program (SOCAP)

Twenty-one jurisdictions in the United States have enacted civil commitment laws for high-risk sex offenders since 1990. Assertive Community Treatment (ACT) is an evidence-based practice in mental health services, with decades of well-controlled research evidence to support its effectiveness in reducing hospital use, improving housing stability, and increasing retention in treatment for clients with severe mental illnesses. Despite the model’s potential promise for application to criminal justice populations with severe mental illnesses, the evidence remains confined to small pilot studies and uncontrolled program evaluations. In this two-part presentation, we describe the basic ACT model components and discuss further model development underway across the country to apply ACT to people with SMI in criminal justice settings.

Cognitive Behavioral Treatment of Sleep Disorders
Presenter: Beltran Pages, Ph.D., Psychiatrist, MHM Correctional Services, Inc.
Focus: Adult Mental Illness
Sleep disorders are a common presentation in the correctional setting. Inmates often are directly referred to health services or psychiatry and treated with medication that is often maintained for extended periods of time. Cognitive/Behavioral interventions as well as relaxation is a proven intervention that has no negative consequences and is a good first line response to this issue. A good diagnostic workup that includes a sleep log and later referral to a 4 session group module is to be the first line of intervention. The protocol and group modules will be covered.

Introducing the Adults Needs and Strength Assessment
Presenter: Betty Walton, Ph.D., Walton Consultants, Indiana University School of Social Work, Indiana Family & Social Services Division of Mental Health & Addiction
Focus: Adult Addiction
Mental health and addiction services are provided through multiple public service systems. The Adult Needs and Strength Assessment (ANSA, Lyons, 1999) is an information integration tool which can be used to improve communication across systems, engage individuals while identifying needs and strengths, support decisions about intervention plans and intensity of services, monitor outcomes and improve the quality of care. This workshop will introduce the tool and possible uses.

Understanding the Stakes in Juvenile Bonding
Presenter: Carolyn Gentle-Genitty, MSW, ABD, Assistant Director for Labor Studies, Indiana University/After Care for Indiana for Mentoring, Indiana University School of Social Work
Focus: Juvenile/All
Valuing a person or property is largely contingent on the stakes or investment a juvenile has in said person or property. These stakes are formed through opportunities for social bonding. Failure to recognize the need and enhance opportunities for juvenile bonding limits the value, belief, commitment, and involvement the juvenile has with conventional cognitive processes and increases the strain they experience and express.
Suicide Prevention: Correctional Medical Services National Protocol
Presenter: Cindy Harvey, R.N., Behavioral Health Clinical Supervisor, Correctional Medical Services
Focus: Adult Mental Illness
Realizing the daily challenges faced by site leadership, CMS’ Corporate Behavioral Health Department designed a “ready to assemble” suicide prevention program that provides not only increased resources and guidance, but also makes it easier for site leadership to implement a successful suicide program. These prevention resources are organized into a user-friendly “Suicide Prevention in a Box” format to facilitate use and distribution by site leadership at their designated facilities. This comprehensive suicide prevention program individually addresses all critical aspects recommended by national suicide prevention experts and regulatory entities.

The Assertive Community Treatment Model for Seriously Mentally Ill Offenders (Part II)

Assistant Professor, IUPUI
Focus: Adult Mental Illness
Assertive Community Treatment (ACT) is an evidence-based practice in mental health services, with decades of well-controlled research evidence to support its effectiveness in reducing hospital use, improving housing stability, and increasing retention in treatment for clients with severe mental illnesses. Despite the model’s potential promise for application to criminal justice populations with severe mental illnesses, the evidence remains confined to small pilot studies and uncontrolled program evaluations. In this two-part presentation, we describe the basic ACT

Presenter: James Francis DeGroot, Ph.D., Director of Mental Health/
Mental Retardation, Georgia Department of Correction
Focus: Adult Mental Illness
The Georgia Department of Correction releases over 2,000 mentally ill inmates each year. Research has been conducted to monitor recidivism rate and reasons for this population. We will discuss findings from our research to include services prior to release and after release. The correlation between housing and income as a factor in recidivating will be discussed. Barriers to successful re-entry into the community, along with some interventions that will be helpful and easy to implement, will be presented.

Co-Presenter: Eleanor L. Brown, LPC
Workshop Descriptions
Tuesday, 10:00 - 11:15 a.m.

Sex Offender Registration, Community Notification, and Emerging Issues 201
Presenter: Brent Myers, Director of Registration & Victim Services, Indiana Department of Correction
Focus: Adult Sex Offenders
This session is designed for those who already have a basic understanding of sex offender registration and community notification efforts. It will explore recent developments in registration and community notification (i.e., Adam Walsh Child Protection and Safety Act) and emerging issues such as safety zones, lifetime supervision requirements, GPS/electronic monitoring, etc. Participants will walk away with a better understanding of the issues states face in regards to sex offender management and monitoring.

The Effectiveness of Depo-Lupron on Sexual Arousal as Indicated by the Penile Plethysmograph Testing
Presenter: Michael Bednarz, MD, Illinois Department of Human Services
Focus: Adult Sex Offenders
This study evaluates the effectiveness of anti-androgen treatment (Depo-Lupron) on sexual arousal as indicated by penile plethysmograph (PPG) testing. The subjects are 80 adult male sex offenders currently housed under the Sexually Violent Person Act in the Illinois Department of Human Services Treatment and Detention Center. Preliminary data analyses indicate a strong treatment effect in that subjects treated with Depo-Lupron demonstrate a significant reduction in deviant sexual arousal as measured by the PPG.
Co-Presenter: Adbi Tinwalla, MD

Bridging the Gap between Mental Health and Custody Staff
Presenter: James Holwager, Ph.D., Chief Psychologist, North Branch Correctional Institution, Maryland Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services
Focus: Adult/Juvenile Mental Illness
In corrections, new programs are looked at with significant skepticism. We make sure new programs are built for evidence-based practices, but we may have forgotten the most important component which is staff buy-in. Mental Health and custody staff often have a communication rift that sabotages many good programs. This program will focus on communication techniques and planning strategies that are designed to assist in building that bridge between mental health and custody professionals.
Multidisciplinary Treatment Planning
Presenter: Sharon Barboza, Ph.D., MHM Correctional Services, Inc.
Focus: All

This session provides clinicians with strategies and skills for producing progress notes that speak to an individual inmate’s specific treatment plan and progress towards treatment goals. It will provide an overview on how to write measurable treatment goals, formulate progress notes that speak to those specific goals, and transform notes that are descriptions of status into progress notes. Hands-on exercises allow participants to practice these skills and receive feedback from other clinicians.

Beginning the Crisis Intervention Team Process in Your Community
Presenter: Dottie Davis, Deputy Chief,
Fort Wayne (Indiana) Police Department
Focus: Adult Mental Illness

Crisis Intervention Team (CIT) is a community partnership of law enforcement, mental health professionals, and family members. The goal of the program is to help persons with mental illness access medical treatment rather than placing them in the criminal justice system for illness related behaviors. This involves 40 hours of specialized training regarding mental illness, de-escalation techniques, and community mental health resources for law enforcement officers.

“Getting Out for Good”
Presenter: Ed Manier, Ph.D., Professor Emeritus, Philosophy and Philosophy of Science, University of Notre Dame & C. Robert Cloninger, M.D., Professor of Psychiatry and Genetics, Department of Psychobiology, Washington University School of Medicine
Focus: Mental Illness Adult

This session will present the “Getting Out for Good” curriculum currently being offered at the Indiana Department of Correction’s Westville Correctional Facility. The Temperament and Character Inventory (TCI) is a standardized instrument implemented by C. Robert Cloninger. The “Getting Out for Good” curriculum is a synthesis of work by C. Robert Cloninger, M.D. and William R. Miller, Ph.D., (“motivational interviewing”) which suggests that even a poorly motivated individuals can learn, in groups, behind bars, to overcome anti-social identities, cognition, emotion and behavior, although multiple exercises building on their signature strengths and virtues, and gradually taking control of previously impulsive behaviors rooted in the neuropsychological foundations of four basic traits of temperament.

This workshop will provide information regarding new advances in the identification and support of these individuals as well as some practical approaches for community management and response.

Co-Presenters: Leah McKenzie, MS, BCBA

Minimizing Correctional Mental Health Emergencies: Solutions for Dealing with Difficult Offenders
Presenter: Derrick Baume, Psy.D., Lead Psychologist, Miami Correctional Facility, Indiana Department of Correction
Focus: Adult Mental Illness

Mental health-related emergencies are among the vast array of unsettling correctional events. These signal events often manifest in offender lying, agitation, or self-harm behavior. A portion of the offender population takes advantage of Mental Health departments for secondary gain purposes. Altering the perception of Mental Health Departments as “the path of least resistance” is a key component toward better utilization practice and institutional stability. Specific interventions are offered toward this goal.

Transition from Prison to Community Initiative Overview

National Institute of Corrections

The National Institute of Corrections (NIC) is an agency within the U.S. Department of Justice, Federal Bureau of Prisons. The Institute is headed by a Director appointed by the U.S. Attorney General. A 16-member Advisory Board, also appointed by the Attorney General, was established by the enabling legislation (Public Law 93-415) to provide policy direction to the Institute. The NIC provides training, technical assistance, information services, and policy/program development assistance to federal, state, and local corrections agencies. They also provide leadership to the field to influence correctional policies, practices, and operations nationwide in areas of emerging interest and concern to correctional executives and practitioners as well as public policymakers.

Center for Effective Public Policy

The Center for Effective Public Policy is a nonprofit organization first incorporated in Pennsylvania in 1981 with its main office in Silver Spring, Maryland, and satellite offices in Hatboro, Pennsylvania; Columbia, Missouri; Jefferson City, Missouri; Columbia, South Carolina; and San Francisco, California. The Center’s staff—approximately two dozen in all, depending on the cumulative scope of individual projects—and network of expert consultants are configured into project teams that have diverse qualifications and backgrounds in corrections, organizational development, nonprofit management, training, criminal justice, human services research, agency administration, and policy development. The Center provides training and technical assistance to a wide array of public justice agencies to assist them to become more effective in achieving their own goals and objectives in service to the public.
The Transition from Prison to Community Initiative is a technical assistance effort of the National Institute of Corrections. The goal of the initiative is to support state and local level efforts to ensure the successful and crime-free transition of offenders as they complete their prison time and return to the community. Eight states currently participate in the Initiative – Georgia, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri, New York, North Dakota, Oregon, and Rhode Island. The project seeks to bring together multiple stakeholders within the criminal justice system along with other agencies from the public and private sectors to work together to implement a model transition process.

The two-day TPC workshop on June 23-24 will allow participants from each of the TPC states come together to:

- To share their accomplishments, challenges, and lessons learned with respect to implementing the TPC model;
- To review emerging products of the TPC initiative, including the TPC Handbook, Case Management Handbook, and TPC e-learning and their application in jurisdictions; and
- To develop a clear plan of action for their work over the coming months of the Initiative.

The workshop is open to invited team members from TPC participating jurisdictions only.
