Investment Fund Options

NPRS’s lineup of investment funds for Defined Contribution Accounts (DC), previously known as an ASA, provides members greater control in saving for their retirement futures.

Daily valuation allows members to manage their DC account investments on a daily basis rather than quarterly. And, for the first time ever, members can allocate their current DC balance to new fund options and direct future contributions to a completely different asset allocation.

If you are a new member and did not make an investment election when you were hired, your contributions default to a target date fund based on your estimated retirement date.

If you made an election upon hire and have not revisited this election, take the opportunity to learn about the DC options available to you. For detailed information on each of these funds, please visit our website.
