The mission of the Indiana EHDI program is to identify children as deaf or hard of hearing as early as possible, and enhance their development and opportunities for success through appropriate programming and intervention. Our goal is to develop, maintain and enhance systems in the state of Indiana that support that mission. One baby at a time, Indiana EHDI is committed to the best possible communicative, educational and social outcomes for these children.

- LEADING: Indiana was one of the first states to mandate universal newborn hearing screening (beginning in 2000) and continues to be a national leader in maintaining low lost-to-follow-up rates and early identification for deaf and hard of hearing children.
- FINDING: Hearing loss is an invisible condition that affects 2-3 out of every 1000 newborns. Given an approximate 84,000 annual births, anywhere from 160-250 children with hearing loss could be born each year in Indiana. The majority of these children are born to parents that have normal hearing.
- HELPING: EHDI encourages all stakeholders to follow the 1-3-6 guideline (more details on that guideline may be found below). Research has indicated that early intervention (prior to age 6 months) is critical to successful outcomes for children who are born deaf or hard of hearing (Yoshinaga-Itano, 1998).

- TRACKING: EHDI maintains a statewide database to record and monitor children who do not pass newborn hearing screening, or pass with risk factors for late-onset hearing loss and require follow-up.

- CONNECTING: EHDI works closely with the Indiana Guide By Your Side program to provide parent-to-parent support. This program connects parents of children that have been newly identified as deaf or hard of hearing with trained Parent Guides.

Through state funding and federal grants, we strive to maintain a program that provides a valuable service to the residents of the state of Indiana. This would not be possible without the everyday efforts of stakeholders throughout the state. Collaboration is key to ensure positive outcomes for children who are deaf or hard of hearing!
1-3-6 is the motto of the EHDI program. It represents the mission and purpose that we strive to achieve.

All newborns should be screened by age one month. In other words, we should know the result of a hearing screening by 1 month of age. Screenings are usually performed prior to the baby leaving the hospital after birth. Babies who are born outside of a hospital will usually need to set up a screening independent from their midwife, although some midwives do offer hearing screening.

All infants that do not pass the hearing screening should have confirmation of hearing status (or be “identified”) by three months of age. This testing should be completed by an audiologist with pediatric experience.

All infants that were identified as deaf or hard of hearing should be enrolled in early intervention services by six months of age. The sooner intervention begins, the less likely it is that the infant falls behind his/her peers in regards to language, social, cognitive and emotional development.

INDIANA RESOURCES FOR CHILDREN AND FAMILIES WHO ARE DEAF OR HARD OF HEARING

Center for Deaf and Hard of Hearing Education (CDHHE): www.in.gov/isdh/25883.htm

The center supports parental choice, including the full continuum of communication options (including American sign language, other forms of sign language, cued speech, listening and spoken language (oral), or any combination of these skills), with the goal “to ensure that children who are deaf and children who are hard of hearing acquire optimal language skills and academic abilities, regardless of the mode of communication used”.

Hear Indiana: www.hearindiana.org/

Hear Indiana is an organization that empowers and supports families of children who are deaf or hard of hearing. Hear Indiana “ensures that parents who wish to have their child attend a mainstream school, have equal access early intervention (e.g., hearing aids and appropriate therapy)”.

Indiana First Steps: www.in.gov/fssa/4655.htm

The goal of the Indiana’s First Steps System is to help Hoosier families make sure their infants and toddlers receive services to help them in the future. First Steps brings together families with a local network of professionals from education, health and social service agencies. Services are coordinated to give the child the widest possible array of early intervention resources. First Steps is available in every county in Indiana.

Indiana Hands & Voices: www.inhandsandvoices.org/

Indiana Chapter of Hands and Voices is a parent-driven, non-profit organization providing families with the resources, networks, and information they need to improve communication access and educational outcomes for their children. Hands & Voices is dedicated to “supporting families with children who are deaf or hard-of-hearing without a bias around communication modes or methodology”.

Indiana School for the Deaf: www.deafhoosiers.com/

The Indiana School for the Deaf (ISD) is a fully accredited school for Deaf and hard-of-hearing students in nursery school through high school. The Indiana School for the Deaf is “committed to providing meaningful learning opportunities for students that foster academic and social excellence where languages and diversity are valued”.

St. Joseph Institute for the Deaf: www.sjid.org

This institute is an educational option for children with hearing loss. Its mission is “committed to the auditory-oral education, spiritual and emotional growth, and personal development of hearing-impaired children and young adults, without discrimination”. There is a campus in Indianapolis which has programs for children from early intervention to preschool and early elementary years.
