

STATE OF INDIANA

Michael R. Pence, Governor

Jacob Speer, State Librarian

INDIANA STATE LIBRARY

140 N. Senate Avenue

Indianapolis, IN 46204

Phone: (317) 232-3675

Fax: (317) 232-0002

Jenna Grubb
New Britton Elementary School
Fishers, IN 1st Place Winner

Celebrating 200

That blue and yellow in the stands, the loud rumble of the fans. Where are all those lucky faces?
In Indiana at lots of places!

To fire it up, here comes that blue jerseys gripping their hands on the seams of the brown ball.
Touchdown! The Colts win.

Then, you hear thundering footsteps as loud as hail bumping off the roof. In addition to that, you get to fly over a country with pyramids and horses! But of course, you land back at the Children's Museum.

Thirdly, you travel back to 1863 where the pioneers used to live. Then you go up, up, up! Next, you step inside a barn at Connor Prairie where the animals are!

Fourth of all, you go to a place with water, and trees. Here, you sleep in a cabin when the night ends. The sunshine slides down and all the rays follow. You go to sleep at silent as one little cricket chirping in a whole big farm. McCormick's creek is where you are.

When you wake up, you enter a grassy field full of golden flakes. You see little red wings fluttering above you in the blue sky. A farm land stretches out across you in the cold, yet cozy morning weather.

Before the day ends you get to scream as loud as a hyena howling in the moonlight. "My favorite," you say as your ride it again. Fun, until the day ends. But you will always remember your trip to Holiday World!

When the day ends you snuggle up in bed. WOW! What a fun day you had in Indiana, the state we love and cherish. Celebrate your great, little state! That is how I would celebrate mine.