

Vaccines have had a history of helping communities in many ways over the years.

Today, while working along with the Federal and State Government, as well as your local healthcare provider, we at the Harrison County Health Department (HCHD) are here to share information and help advise residents in making informed decisions, and in assisting families and individuals when deciding what steps are best for them when addressing health issues.

HCHD wants our community to know that vaccinations are an important part of keeping our county healthy and prepared in times of storms, floods, and other emergencies.
