What is EAP?
The Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) is a federal program that can help you keep your utilities on during the winter. LIHEAP assists you in paying for your energy bills by providing a one-time benefit assistance payment. These benefits are paid directly to the utility vendor to help cover your heating and electric costs. If you don't have utility bills because your utilities are included in rent, you may still qualify for LIHEAP. LIHEAP also may help you pay for cooling during the summer, if funding is available.

Am I Eligible?
You may be eligible if you make less than the income limits listed below:

Contact the agency for income eligibility for households with additional person above 6.

How do I Apply?
To apply, contact your local service provider to obtain an application. To find your local service provider, call 2-1-1. You will need to bring or send all of the necessary documents to the provider in order to receive energy assistance. If you have a disconnected utility, received a notice for disconnection, or you are almost out or out of bulk fuel, please notify your local service provider immediately, as you may be eligible for a crisis benefit.

Application Timeline
If you are eligible, benefits payments typically go out starting November 1st. Beginning December 1st, eligible EAP applicants cannot be disconnected from receiving electric or gas service. This is called Moratorium, which runs until March 15th. If you receive energy assistance, you must renew your application every year. Contact your local service provider to re-apply and to find out what documents you need.

Other Programs

Energy Education & Family Development
As part of the EAP Program, you may be able to receive energy education through your local service provider. These programs will show you ways to bring down energy costs. In addition, you may be able to receive family development service through your local service provider, which can assist your family in creating efficiency and financial stability at home. Family development is designed to support you, set goals, and create a path to achieve your goals.

Utility Provider Energy Assistance Programs
Many utility companies provide their own energy assistance to their clients. For more information, please contact your utility provider.

Weatherization
You may also be able to receive assistance through the Weatherization Assistance Program (WAP). WAP can provide improvements to your home to make it more energy efficient and safer. If you are eligible for the EAP program, you are also eligible for the WAP program. To learn more about weatherization, please contact your local service provider.

Individual Development Account (IDA) Program
IDAs are special matched savings accounts in which individuals will be matched on their savings at a minimum of 3:1 for qualifying asset purchases such as a home, owner-occupied repair, small-business, vehicle purchase and/or education expenses. Please contact IHEDA to learn more about the program and to see if you are eligible.
