

ABOUT

CARRIE INGRAM

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

MEDIATOR

Carrie Ingram has served as the Chief Administrative Law Judge at the Office of Administrative Law Proceedings since July 2023.

Prior to joining OALP, Carrie was the Director of Dispute Resolution for the Indiana Education Employment Relations Board where she was in charge of all dispute resolution in Indiana between school corporations and teachers unions. Prior to that, Carrie served as an ALJ for the Department of Workforce Development and Department of Child Services.

Carrie was a 2018 Fellow of the National Administrative Law Foundation where she researched and published an article on Chevron Deference. Carrie presented her research at the National Association of Administrative Law Judiciary's 2018 Annual Conference in St. Petersburg, Florida. Since then, Carrie has been a regular attendee and speaker at conferences held by NAALJ and its Indiana affiliate.

Carrie is known for encouraging people to look for the answers in statute. If you ask Carrie a question, she will likely respond by asking "what does the statute say?"

EDUCATION

Jacob D. Fuchsburg Law Center, Touro University
Central Islip, New York
Juris Doctorate

Indiana State University
Terre Haute, Indiana
Bachelor of Arts

STATE OF INDIANA

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW PROCEEDINGS

