

Mary Davidsen

Indianapolis, Indiana

- Attorney
- Chief Environmental Law Judge; Office of Environmental Adjudication

Travel: Statewide/virtual

Areas of Particular Interest:

- Environmental
- Natural Resources
- Administrative Law

Additional Information:

Mary Davidsen has been an attorney licensed in Indiana and in good standing since 1992, when she earned her J.D. from IU School of Law-Indianapolis. She earned an M.B.A. from University of Indianapolis in 1984, and a B.A. from Purdue University (Radio/TV/Film and Secondary Education) in 1979. While attending law school, Davidsen worked full-time as a law clerk at the Lebanon, Indiana law firm of Parr, Richey, Obremsky & Morton. She also served as law student intern at the Indiana Department of Environmental Management for one day per week for one semester, researching the constitutionality of a proposed odor control rule. As a licensed Indiana attorney, she served for approximately 5 years as a staff attorney for the Indiana Department of Natural Resources, primarily advocating the Division of Water's administrative cases, followed by approximately 5 years of general private law practice in Noblesville, Indiana. She has served Indiana as the OEA's Director and Chief Environmental Law Judge since September, 2003. She has served as special judge for the Indiana Ethics Commission and the Indiana Natural Resources Commission. She is a registered mediator and has mediated for other state agencies, including the Natural Resources Commission.