Whether you are a senior or a seventh grader, your school years are bound to be an important part of your life, not just now but for the rest of your life. We all take with us memories of each year spent with our friends, teachers, and other acquaintances from our school years at Clinton Prairie Junior-Senior High School. These memories will undoubtedly include the good, the bad, and everything in between; but no matter what types of memories we may take with us upon leaving Clinton Prairie, these remembered times ultimately become a part of each of us. Whether we realize it or not, our school years are, in many ways, the "stuff" memories are made of. And these are memories that will last a lifetime...

It'll Last Longer

A Picture Is Worth

Sometimes looking at a single picture is enough to bring a memory back to life in an amazing way. You look at the photograph long after the pictured event has occurred, maybe even years later, and it's almost as if you are reliving the moment. You may look at pictures from your childhood and suddenly remember things you thought were long forgotten. Maybe you see a photograph of a friend who has long since moved away, only to recall the face as if you had seen your friend only yesterday. Like books, photographs record history; and in looking at pictures of your past, either long past or only the recent past, you get a sense of where you have been and how that has shaped where you are now as an individual. Sometimes it is years later before we realize just how important certain people and places have been in our lives.

Courtney Kinsler Named Queen

Homecoming week started Wednesday October 6, 1993. The Student Council held the Bonfire Wednesday night with games including, the obstacle course, chubby bunny, greased pumpkin contest, egg toss, and tug of war. The Seniors outscored the other classes and won the Homecoming games. After the games everyone gathered around the bonfire and sang songs.

On Friday night, October 8 the Seniors walked away with an easy win on the Homecoming floats as they had the only entry in the float contest.

Then just before the crowning ceremonies, it started to thunder and lightning so Homecoming was postponed a week.

Finally, on the second try, the Homecoming ceremony was held successfully on Friday, October 15. The Homecoming court consisted of Seniors Ali Lock, Tracey Ramsey, Jamie Pelfree, Julie Reents, and Courtney Kinsler; Junior class representative Kara Elliott; Sophomore class representative Leslie Ramsey; and Freshman class representative Ashley Ramsey. Keisha Smith, last years Homecoming Queen crowned Courtney Kinsler as the 1993 Clinton Prairie Homecoming Queen.

Though the night was a memorable one for the new queen and her court, it was not so pleasant for the Gopher football team, as visiting Central Catholic won the game by a score of 21-0.

Can You Picture This?

"I never pictured myself doing a Pete Rose slide into second base during softball and not making it all the way to the base. The player tagged me out!"

- Amanda Caplinger, senior

"I never pictured myself wrecking my car in the second month after I got it!"

- Maggie Villars, sophomore

"One night around Halloween, some friends and I went toilet-papering. A policeman caught us and took us back to the people's house."

- Andy Wainscott, eighth grader

"One time Becky Camp had Beth Friedrich and me spend the night at her house. The next day we all went to the mall in her station wagon. We rode all the way there backwards! I told them I wasn't feeling well, but I'm not sure they were believing me. When we were finally at the mall, we all got out, and Beth and Becky walked toward the mall, while I walked the other way. Becky turned around just as I got sick all over a white car! Becky and Beth laughed, and then we went in the mall and went shopping!"

- Kelly Haughs, eighth grader

"I never pictured myself playing in the rain, in the middle of the street, during a storm."

- Michelle Bandy, freshman

Neither Could These People!

"During this past summer, Leah Miller and I were eating Pixie Stix and doing cartwheels in Marsh's parking lot! Not that many people were out cruising that night -- we got bored!"

- Karmen Fink, senior

"I never pictured myself spending my spring break in Miami, Florida, putting roofs on houses." (part of a hurricane relief effort)

- Denae Barnett, junior

"I never pictured myself going to one of my friend's funerals."

- Mike Rothenberger, freshman

"I am a clumsy person, so I always find myself doing things that I never pictured doing. I am the person who breaks plates or spills my drinks in a restaurant. I also break tester bottles of perfume or set off the security alarm by walking too close to the door with unpurchased merchandise in a department store. I not only trip going down the stairs, I also trip going up them. At least I make life interesting."

- Jamie Pelfree, senior

IT WAS A DARK AND STORMY NIGHT

Seniors Rachel Flowers, Jamie Pelfree, and Junior Jesus McKinney starred in the 1993 Fall Play, entitled It Was A Dark And Stormy Night. This mystery, comedy, spoof was written by Tim Kelly.

The audience met the crazy Saltmarsh family including the two cuckoo cousins, Hepzibah and Arabella; the oldest living maniac in Massachusetts, Uncle Silas, and Olive, the hired girl-"She's odd you know."

The man of the house, Ebenezer, was making moonshine in the cellar and was in a fit of rage. He was trying to lure innocent, unsuspecting, young nurses to Ye Olde Wayside Inn in an effort to avenge himself for his being jilted by a nurse many years ago. Many nurses responded to an add in the Boston paper which led to the arrival of guests and the mystery of Ye Olde Wayside Inn.

Nearly twenty CP students participated in the 1993 production of It Was A Dark And Stormy Night, which was directed by Sarah Sabens and Student Director Rachel Flowers. The play was a HUGE success, keeping the audience rolling in the aisles on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 4 and 5.

Arabella and Hepzibah Saltmarsh are rudely interrupted during their aerobics by Dorothy Blake.

"What's the matter with her?" "She's dead! Can't you see?"

"Year of Rebuilding" for CP's Varsity

Clinton Prairie's varsity volleyball team added another successful season to the recordbooks in 1993. Coach Connie Garrett said, "This was a year of rebuilding, with steady improvement by the younger players. The sectional victory over Frankfort and the regional opening game victory over Seeger showed just how much this team had improved." Her Varsity girls were 25-12 for the season and went 6-0 in the conference. Senior, Amanda Caplinger led the team in spiking and blocking, while Senior Julie Reents led the team in assists. Both girls were also asked to compete in the All-Star tryouts, with Caplinger being selected as an alternate to that team.

Despite Losing Record, Clinton Prairie's

The Clinton Prairie Gophers put forth an excellent effort throughout the entire 1993 varsity football season. They showed great enthusiasm and teamwork, even with a record of 0-9 and a conference record of 0-5.

Senior Shawn Golden set three records including most tackles in a game, most receptions in a season, and tied for most interceptions in a season. Golden was voted on the All-Conference first team, All-County, and was named outstanding offensive and defensive back. Other outstanding team members were Charles Haug, also voted All-Conference first team, All-county, and offensive and defensive lineman. Brett Ward was voted All-County and was named outstanding linebacker.

Coach Dan Hilgediek commented, "While the team did not win any games, I view these players as winners, winners because they made the decision to do something positive. I'm very proud of these young men, regardless of the outcome of any game."

What would agriculture teacher Mr. Gordon Logan like to do if he were not teaching at CP? "I sometimes think I would like to be a ship's captain on a Great Lakes freighter. There I would be on water (something I don't see much here) and mostly away from people. This would be my dream occupation."

Mr. Gordon Logan

Mr. Bill Fox, CPHS agriculture teacher, said that if he were not a teacher, he could see himself as either a farmer or as a salesman.

Mr. Nick Baker, one of the business teachers at Clinton Prairie, had an interesting idea for his alternative career: "I enjoy testing! I think I would enjoy evaluating products for such companies as Sealy, Olive Garden, Baskin Robbins, and Teeny Weeny Bikini."

Would you buy a house from business teacher Mrs. Sandra Thompson? "I would like to be a real estate agent and own my own real estate business. I feel I could have done a good job at this," stated Mrs. Thompson.

Ms. Connie Garrett

Picture this! Ms. Connie Garrett, physical education teacher at Clinton Prairie, said, "I always wanted to be a professional baseball player (on the Cincinnati Reds) -- not as an issue of a female on a men's team, but because there are no comparable women's teams. My second career choice would be as a publisher of books of 'famous' authors."

Mr. Bob Smith

If he were not working as the Athletic Director and as a health/physical education teacher at CPHS, Mr. Bob Smith said that he would like to work as a trainer of race horses.

Mr. Marty Rohrman

Health and physical education teacher Mr. Marty Rohrman could picture himself in a job relating to sales and sales management if he were not teaching.

Home Economics Department

PICTURE THIS !

Mrs. Char Rogers, CPHS home economics teacher, has had some different ideas about what other careers she might be interested in exploring. She said, "In sixth grade I knew that I either wanted to become a teacher or a beautician. Now I think it would be fun to be an archaeologist and study past civilizations."

Mrs. Char Rogers

If Clinton Prairie home economics teacher Mrs. Carol Hamilton were not teaching, she could see herself as a pharmaceutical representative. "I really enjoy the medical field, and this is one way I could have contact with medical personnel," said Mrs. Hamilton. "Plus, I love visiting and talking with others. Also, in this field, if you work hard, you are monetarily reimbursed."

Mr. Al Hintzman

If he were not teaching industrial arts, Mr. Al Hintzman says he would like to be a conservation officer.

Mr. John Vandewalle, industrial arts teacher, said that if he were not a teacher, he would like to be a lawyer. "I have always liked the field of law. The only problem is that it takes so much schooling," stated Mr. Vandewalle.

Mr. John Vandewalle

Mr. Joe Walker, CPHS industrial arts teacher, had this response when asked about what job he might choose if he were not teaching: "I would like to be the chief photographer for Team Penske. Traveling around the world, taking pictures of all of Roger Penske's race teams, would be very interesting to me. This would allow me to further enjoy my two favorite hobbies, auto racing and photography."

Mr. James Compton

Mrs. Linda Marshall

Mr. Lee Moyer

Could you see English/Latin teacher Mr. James Compton as a program producer/director for television? That was what Mr. Compton said he would be interested in doing if he were not teaching.

Spanish teacher Mrs. Carolyn Davis had several ideas about what she might choose to do if she were not teaching. Said Mrs. Davis, "Several choices come to mind: 1) an archaeologist ... definitely an archaeologist - I could see myself somewhere in Mexico or Central America. 'Digging' into the past of pre-Columbian peoples would be fabulous! ; 2) a lawyer - one who would fight for the rights of the 'average' individual; or 3) Alex Trebek - host of Jeopardy! This man has to know so much simply through osmosis!"

Clinton Prairie English teacher Mrs. Linda Marshall stated, "If I were not teaching English, I would be a full-time writer -- probably essays and poetry. When I was a teenager, I wanted to be a novelist and/or singer. As a grade-school student, I wanted to be a teacher/archaeologist."

"I have thought for a long time of being a trial lawyer," said Mr. Lee Moyer, CP English teacher. "I like to read, to analyze, and to speak about what I have determined to be the truth. Law has always seemed exciting to me."

What would CP English teacher Mrs. Marcia Hudson do if she were not teaching? "I would picture myself as an editor in a publishing company, as a cryptographer, or as an archaeologist researching King Arthur and the Celts."

When asked what she might like to do other than teach, English teacher Mrs. Sarah Sabens responded, "I have always thought it would be interesting to work as a marine biologist, studying some of the amazing underwater life of the world. Also, the idea of working on the film crew for some of the PBS nature specials appeals to me, since I like animals and the outdoors."

Math teacher Miss Charlotte Bailey could picture herself working as a nurse - "either surgical or obstetrics floor" - if she were not working as an educator.

What might CP math teacher Mr. Steve Adamson do if he were not teaching? "If I were not working in my present field of employment, I would picture myself as a writer. I would have written technological science fiction, such as the style of Isaac Asimov, or Intelligence adventure stories, such as in the style of Tom Clancy. My second choice would have been to stay in the military intelligence field, probably working for the NSA (National Security Administration) as an analyst."

Could you picture math teacher Mr. Bill Taylor working at Disney World? "I've always thought it would be fun to run rides at Disney World. The nice weather, meeting all sorts of new people, and seeing Mickey Mouse every day would be awesome. One of the most attractive things about the job is that you wouldn't have to struggle with deciding what to wear every day. Also, it sounds more exciting than being a brain surgeon."

Mrs. Patty Catt, music teacher at CPHS, had some ideas of what she might do if she were not teaching: "I always say my next master's degree will be in curriculum counseling. I would try to make sure they were well-informed and did not get caught by surprise."

Mr. Doug Segraves

What would Mr. Dan Hilgediek do if he were not a social studies teacher here at CPHS? He would be "a golf instructor in Arizona during the winter. During the summer I would travel north to teach. There are actually golf schools that do that. A real tough life ... but I'd have to learn to actually play the game better!"

Mr. Dan Hilgediek

Could you picture this? Mrs. Jill Doades, CPHS social studies teacher, said that if she were not teaching, "I might picture myself living in a 'Sunshine State' and training dolphins for a successful theme park. I guess this might still be an occupation in the field of education, just at a different level!!"

Counseling and Guidance Office

PICTURE THIS !

Guidance Director Mr. Nick Zafran had an unusual idea about what he might do if he were in another field of work: " 'Ladies and gentlemen, and children of all ages, cast your gaze to the center ring...' Yes, I've always had the secret desire to be a circus ringmaster. Ever since the days of Super Circus (1949) when Claude Kirscher controlled the Big Top on TV with Mary Hartline (baton twirler) and their clown pals, have I longed for the sights, sounds, and smells that are unique to the circus world. The highlight of my early years would be the yearly visit of the Shrine Circus to the Civic Center in Hammond. The exotic people who spoke a dozen different languages were seemingly under the spell of the ringmaster as he set the stage for chills, thrills, and death-defying acts."

Guidance Counselor Mrs. Leslie Robison says she could picture herself in a couple of different occupational fields other than guidance: "I always thought I might like to be an archaeologist and dig in the ruins of Ancient Egypt, or I might like to be an attorney."

Guidance office secretary Ms. Suzanne Rothenberger chose an interesting alternative career: "I would like to be a talk show host. Only my show would have 'interesting' guests with 'interesting' topics, not like the degrading, moronic shows that are on television now."

CP's secretary Mrs. Nicki Stillings had this to say about an alternative career: "I truly cannot imagine myself in any other field of employment, as I always thought I would end up working in an office. Of course, there are many types of offices and many facets of office work. I might enjoy a position that involved some research and, along that line of thought, I'd like to do more research on my family tree."

Freshman Jessica Winters stated that she joined Prairiettes "because I love to dance and perform in front of an audience." Another Prairiette, Sophomore Arlen Winger, said, "It benefits me because it helps me to get along with others and not to be so insecure about performing in front of others." The group was sponsored by Ms. Suzanne Rothenberger.

ACADEMIC TEAM

The High School Academic Team competed in several academic contests during the 1993-94 school year, including the Hoosier Heartland Spell Bowl, the Area Hoosier Spell Bowl, and the Hoosier Heartland Academic Super Bowl (which Clinton Prairie hosted for the first time ever). Junior Student Council member Katie Hansell said, "I joined this club because I feel that student government is the best way to have the students' feelings and opinions represented. Many of the ideas for spending, building, and general reconstruction come from the class representatives."

JUNIOR HIGH STUDENT COUNCIL

LIBRARY AIDES

The Library Aides once again assisted Mrs. Carol Travis, the media specialist at Clinton Prairie, in taking care of business in the media center. They helped students find books and other materials, shelved books, and checked books in and out, as well as doing other tasks for Mrs. Travis. Sophomore Jon Haug stated that he "had a free study hall and wanted something to do," and Sophomore Bobbi Weaver, another Library Aide, said, "I like to help out, and it's better than study hall."

OFFICE AIDES

The Office Aides were busy, as usual, during the 1993-94 school year, running errands, making copies, checking attendance, and performing various other jobs for the teachers, students, and office personnel. Senior Christy Hickman, who spent her first year as an aide, said, "I learned many new things in the office, and I learned how to help others." Running errands, grading papers, and making copies were among the jobs performed by these students. Kevin Howard was a High School Aide and commented that he took on the job because he likes to be helpful and enjoys trying to make the teacher's job a little easier. Kevin also said, "It benefits me in that I get to know the teacher a little better as a friend, instead of just a teacher. It also benefits the teachers in that they can have the aides do errands for them without having to stop teaching or grading tests or homework."

ELEMENTARY AIDES

Helping the elementary teachers and office staff with various tasks, including working with elementary students, was the job of the Elementary Aides. Sophomore Dawn Krueger was one of the high school students who worked as an Elementary Aide during the 1993-94 school year. Dawn commented on some of the benefits of being an aide: "It benefits the kids because they have a change from the daily teacher-student routine. I benefit from this because I can see the change from when they come and ask me a question to when I have explained it and they have an understanding of the answer."

YEARBOOK STAFF

The Yearbook Staff worked throughout the year in funding and designing the 1994 yearbook. The year began with advertisement sales in the fall and continued through the year with the designing of layouts, the writing of copy and captions, and the selling of more advertisements and books. Junior Danetta Cragun commented on one of the benefits of being a member of the Yearbook Staff: "It is so neat to know that we have been a part of making history. When C.P. students are looking back on '93-'94, they may pick up their old yearbook, flip through the pages, and try to remember some names and faces, and then they will know, too, what we have accomplished." The yearbook adviser was Mrs. Sarah Sabens.

Something To Think About

If we could shrink the earth's population to a village of precisely 100 people, but all the existing nations remained the same, it would look like this:

There would be: 57 Asians
 21 Europeans
 14 Western Hemisphere People (Both Americas)
 8 Africans

70 of the 100 would be non-white and non-Christian

30 would be white and Christian

50% of the entire world's wealth would be in the hands of only
6 people--all 6 would be citizens of the United States

70 would be unable to read; 50 would suffer from malnutrition;
80 would live in substandard housing, and only 1 would have a university education

We have a unique responsibility to use our resources and talents in ways which will improve our world.

I can't believe this year is over already. Writing this last page makes it all seem so final.

I want to thank everyone who helped work so hard on this yearbook. We definitely put some time and energy into making some important decisions.

Thank you Rachel and Danetta for finally getting the Revue pages done! Seriously, you two made the hour go by so quickly with your great senses of humor and hard work.

Kevin, I owe you a thank you for getting me hooked on computer Euchre. You always worked hard on the captions and indexing and I really appreciate that.

Danielle, I am so glad that I got a chance to introduce you to the waxer and watch your facination! I had a lot of fun with you and was shocked at how quickly you picked up on things. You have done a lot in helping us finish the yearbook.

Thank you very much Mrs. Sabens for the opportunity to be Editor of the yearbook. You are terrific. It amazes me when I think about how much you put up with! Without you there wouldn't be an Emerald to call our own.

Well, I am about to finish my last "assignment" as a Clinton Prairie Senior. I want to wish everyone a life filled with happiness and dreams. Good luck and Good bye.
